Slaying Occurs in Uptown Business Area

A slaying and an attempted suicide marred a fair spring morning on Main street today near the First Dutch Reformed Church when Edward H. Kelly, 51, of Shokan, shot Eloise McHugh, 44, of 92 Green street from his car and then turned the rifle on himself. She was dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital and at last report

Kelly was expected to live. Among first to arrive at the scene (top) were Henry P. Eighmey, of the Freeman advertising department and Arnold Tierney, local mailman, who were not far from the scene. Perverts' Records Will Be Provided

Police Department Files Are to Be Studied; Quote Officials

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.) said today that impounded records of the Washington police department will be available for a Senate inquiry into federal employment of sexual perverts.

Wherry and Senator Hill (D.-Ala.) conducted a preliminary investigation which prompted a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee to vote last week for a full-scale study of the situation. They quoted police officials as estimating there are about 3,750 homosexuals in government jobs in the nation's capital.

Such perverts are regarded as dangerous security risks because they generally are easy prey for blackmailers. Both Hill and Wherry have stressed that Communists in the role of blackmailers could do real damage to the nation.

Long Record of Offenses Brings Detention, but Proves Nothing

Millville, N. J., May 22 (AP)—A church choir leader with a long record of moral offenses was questioned today in the strangling of Lorraine Hess, but police conceded their investigation appeared headed into another dead-end.

The man John Robert Albert, 31, insisted he was at his home here, nine nights ago when the 17-year-old Millville schoolgirl was strangled, and police said his wife, Grace, confirmed his story. No charges were placed against the man.

Explosion in Kitchen Occurs When Father Opens Door; Coroner Gives Verdict

Found on Floor

Man, 24, Had Lighted Gas Heater, Police Believe

John Macdonald, 24, of 611 Delaware avenue, was found dead in his home Sunday morning following an explosion of gas from a jet, which authorities believe, had been turned on to heat water.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly gave a verdict of "accidental death by asphyxiation due to carbon monoxide poisoning."

The gas, which had accumulated in the kitchen over night, exploded when the young man's father, Austin Macdonald, opened the kitchen door shortly before 9 a. m.

Firemen were called at 8:38 a. m., to the two-story, two-family house owned by Robert Doyle and found young Macdonald lying on the floor, apparently dead. The police department was notified and called a W. N. Comer ambulance, Coroner Kelly, and Dr. Peter D. Corcoran, police physician, who pronounced Macdonald dead.

Police Sgt. William Messing said Macdonald, who was employed at Airport Inn had returned home sometime after midnight and apparently had started to heat some water. His parents had retired and he was alone in the kitchen.

The father reported no injuries, police said.

Firemen and equipment from central station with Deputy Fire Chief George D. Matthews in charge, responded to the telephone alarm. Officers Elbert Soper and Gurney Raper, Sr., were dispatched to the house after the deputy chief notified police headquarters.

Firemen found a kitchen window shade burned off, the kitchen plaster damaged, and some slight damage to doors and a stairway as a result of the explosion.

Young Macdonald was burned about the face, chest and head.

Served in Navy
The young man had served in the U. S. Navy three and a half years in the European and Asiatic areas and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Bonides his parents, Austin and Carolyn Macdonald, he is survived by a brother, Robert H. Macdonald, U. S. navy, a sister, Mrs. Frank Martino, this city, a grandfather, John J. Macdonald, the Bronx, and several aunts and uncles.

The funeral will be held from the Wolf Funeral Home, 340 Broadway Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church at 9 a. m., where a requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Flames Discharge Added Mines in South Amboy; 27 Dead

South Amboy, N. J., May 22 (AP)—Banded citizens are still hearing explosions today in the ruins of the South Amboy waterfront.

Twenty tons of phosphorus shot flames 100 feet into the air yesterday, setting off scores of land mines amid the wreckage of the week-end blast disaster that took 27 lives.

Army demolition officers, combing the area with mine detectors, said blasts would continue for another day or two before the waterfront is safe. They had picked up over 3,000 mines at a late hour yesterday.

Four barges, laden with munitions en route from Newark, O., to Pakistan, exploded Friday with a roar heard across the state. The blast left a death toll of 27, wrecked the waterfront of this port 21 miles southwest of New York, injured 350 persons with flying glass in all parts of the town, and did property damage estimated at $7,500,000.

The phosphorus fire startled residents anew as a fast-spreading blaze zig-zagged through about 50 drums, raising a pall of white smoke over the stricken city.

State police said the phosphorus drums may have been cracked open by Friday's blast, or by a mine detonated by army men. Phosphorus ignites when exposed to air.

100 More Mines Fired
The burning chemical set off about 100 more mines. The fire was in the blast-shattered grounds of the American Agricultural Company, adjacent to the area of Friday's explosion.

Wife Admits Hoax In Kidnaping Case

Says Story of Being Taken Captive Was Spurred by Her Imagination

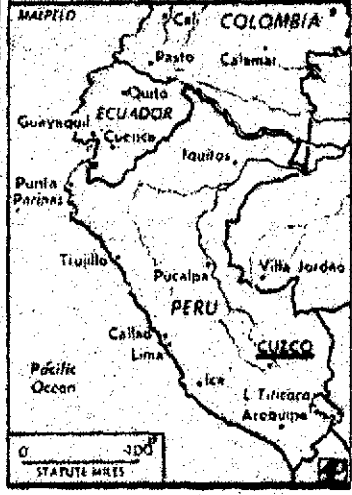

Oklahoma City, May 22 (AP)—The distraught young wife of a vice squad officer admitted today the bizarre 21-hour kidnaping chase she led police yesterday was spurred by her own imagination.

Mrs. Jo Alice Raper, 23, abruptly halted a frantic police hunt when she called her husband, C. V. Raper, from a suburban filling station and asked him to come get her.

But Detective Chief Dwight Brown said officers still hadn't found all the pieces to the puzzling case.

Brown said Raper and his fellow officers feared Mrs. Raper had been overpowered by kidnapers, taken nude from her bedroom and (Continued on Page 15, Col. 2)

Where 'Quake' Hit

Many persons were reported dead or injured today in strong earthquake at Cuzco (underlined), 340 miles southeast of Lima, Peru. First reports said most of the city was destroyed.

50 Persons Killed In Peruvian Quake At Old City, Cuzco

Medical Supplies, Food Are Rushed to Aid Population; 178 Are Injured

Lima, Peru, May 22 (AP)—An emergency airlift today rushed doctors, medical supplies and food to the ancient Andes city of Cuzco, devastated yesterday by a 12-second earthquake. At least 50 persons were reported killed and 178 others injured in the once-thriving seat of Inca civilization.

Peru's President Manuel Odría Amoretti dispatched rescue crews to the stricken city, 340 miles southeast of Lima. The Peruvian health director called on all available doctors and nurses to go to Cuzco at once.

The quake, which struck at 1:45 p. m. (E.S.T.), sent many of the city's 45,000 residents rushing into the streets while centuries-old stone buildings crashed down. Terrified citizens knelt in prayer before a statue of Christ in Cuzco's main plaza, a radio broadcast from the isolated provincial capital said.

Until the rescue parties search the Cuzco ruins the number of casualties will not be known, but a radio broadcast from there late last night said the deaths "have risen to 50" and the number of injured to 178.

San Sebastian Hit
A government communique said the nearby town of San Sebastian also had been hit by the quake and had suffered heavy damage.

The communique said the casualty toll in Cuzco probably would have been far greater except for the fact that some 15,000 persons were watching a football game in the town stadium when the quake struck. None of the spectators were believed hurt.

It was reported that the Hotel Turista, where most foreign visitors stay, was not damaged. Cuzco is a popular center for tourists who come to see the ancient Inca ruins and historic churches.

"The restaurants and shops were almost totally buried," Cuzco reported. "The task of removing the debris is extremely difficult."

Damage Is Great
One estimate said 40 per cent of the buildings in the city were (Continued on Page 15, Col. 4)

Mother of 4 Was on Way To Work

Kelly Is in Kingston Hospital, Expected to Recover From His Head Wound

Was Hit in Back

Bullet From Powerful Weapon Struck Victim From Rear

Eloise McHugh, 44, of 92 Green street, widow of Lawrence F. McHugh, was shot to death at 9:10 o'clock this morning on Main street as she was walking to work.

Edward H. Kelly, 51, formerly of 92 Green street, and now a resident of Shokan, according to eye witnesses to the shooting, then turned the .270 calibre Winchester rifle on himself and fired a shot into his head. He is expected to recover.

The tragedy happened in front of the old First Dutch Church at a time when there was considerable traffic through the street and many persons were on their way to work.

On Way to Work
Mrs. McHugh was on her way to work at the Burgevin, Inc., florist shop at Main and Fair streets. She was half a block from the place when the shooting took place.

William Leonard of 90 Highland avenue, an eye witness to the tragedy, was following the Kelly car at close distance traveling easterly over Main street.

Leonard later said he saw the Kelly car stop several feet from the curb on Main street and a shot was fired at the woman across the street near the Main street entrance to the First Dutch Church. Leonard got out of his car to go to the aid of the woman and then observed Kelly leave his car armed with a gun.

Re-entered Car
When the armed man appeared on the street Leonard re-entered his car and a moment later there was a second shot and Kelly fell to the pavement. Leonard rushed to the spot and took the rifle from the injured man.

Several others who were in the vicinity when the first shot was fired ran to the aid of Mrs. McHugh but hesitated when Kelly appeared from his car armed with a rifle.

Henry P. Eighmey, advertising salesman for The Freeman, and Arnold Tierney, postman, were at Fair and Main streets when their attention was attracted by the first shot.

Eighmey later stated he heard the noise and believed it was a tire blowing. He looked down Main street and saw the woman throw up her hands and fall to the walk on her face. Eighmey and Tierney started to aid the stricken woman but hesitated when Leonard shouted. He had seen Kelly leave the car with the gun.

Second Shot Fired
Eighmey said without knowing why, he dodged behind a car, then came the second shot. "I saw the man in the road." (Continued on Page 15, Col. 7)

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 22 — James A. Hartwig of New York was a weekend visitor to his summer place overlooking the west basin of the reservoir. He plans to sell his property, the one time William Longyear home.

Callers in the village Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones, Kingston couple who formerly resided at Ashokan. Mrs. Jones, prominent in county Rebekah circles, recently attended the state convention of the order in Rochester.

Corla Sheoley of Sundown is spending some time with Mrs. Earl Brundage of the west end. What is the tariff for carrying a loaded gun in your car — and getting caught at it? Well, a Roxbury young man settled for $1250, while a Halcott Center chap was fined the same tune for a similar offense. For shooting a bull while jacking one, two other men parted with $215 each, they claim, having loaded guns in their car. Up in Cairo a fellow who neglected to tag his traps was fined $1750. Complaints are coming increasingly frequent, while conservationists and local J.P.'s are getting correspondingly tougher.

Sam Mann, well-known Kingston Legionnaire, was a caller in the office of the reservoir country Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Osterhout, who for many years resided at Palenville are now making their home at Ashokan, Dutchess county. Earl, a disabled War I veteran is much improved in health. Mrs. Osterhout is the former Dorothy Egan of town at Ashokan.

Alonso Haver, local garage proprietor, continues his frequent fishing trips, though going on 85 years of age. "Lon" brings home not only trout, but bull heads and eels as well. When now, if the two young Kingston men who ran out of gas on the new reservoir boulevard at Temple's Pond in the early morning hours of May 17, 1915, are still alive. If so, they'll doubtless recall the occasion as they had to foot it back to Ward's town at Ashokan.

Mrs. Walter Zanis (Anne Ruckert) is getting along as well as can be expected following a major operation at the Benedictine. Good trout catches up the valley: George Osterander, a 22 1/2 inch beauty at Lanesville; Scotty Scholier of Fleischmanns one nearly 22 inches in the Esopus; Milton Curtis and Earl Conroy each landed one over 20 inches in the Chichester stream. Biggest whopper was by a Tanneville man, Julian Yankowski; his catch was eight 20 inches and the lure was a minnow. George the good old Esopus Creek. These were all rainbows and most of em fell for a worm. However, Les Breithaupt did land a 20-plus rainbow on a wet fly. Fishin's getting better.

Mrs. Alonso Haver observed her 79th birthday Sunday, May 21. Mrs. Haver as Ella Brannen conducted a large boarding house at Big Indian before removing to this section several years ago. Lt. Howard W. Jones, native of Ashokan and for several years a resident of Kingston on April 23 was elected commander of the U.S.S. One of Biggest Problems Is Getting Pure Water

Philadelphia, May 22 (AP)—A convention meets here today to discuss one of the world's oldest, and most pressing, problems—how to supply enough pure water to growing cities.

It is a meeting of the American Water Works Association. An association spokesman said the rapid growth of population—plus dangers to water supplies posed by possible atomic warfare—make it the most important conference in the organization's history.

More than 2,000 delegates, from almost every United States city plus many European countries, South America, Mexico and Japan, are attending.

Harry E. Jordan, association secretary, said the water famine in New York had made the nation aware of a peril watermen had long realized.

The convention lasts through Friday.

SCENE OF RUHR MINE DISASTER

Rescue workers remove equipment from truck on grounds of the Danibusch mine at Gelsenkirchen, Germany, today, where 71 miners lost their lives in explosion a half mile underground, the day before. German flag flies at half staff atop mast on mine elevator. May 21 was to have been Sunday of festivities observing the 500th anniversary of Gelsenkirchen's founding, but the jubilee program was canceled. (A.P. Photo by radio from Frankfurt.)

Kuniyoshi to Serve On Painting Jury

Woodstock, May 22 — Yasuo Kuniyoshi will serve on the jury for the Eastern states for the show "American Painting Today—1950," which is slated to open December 8, 1950, at the Metropolitan Museum. Announcements of the Museum's $8,500 competition exhibition have just been mailed out to 18,000 U. S. artists.

After five regional juries have made their selections, they will then be referred to a national jury in New York. The exhibition will consist of 300 paintings in oil, oil tempera and encaustic.

Rules issued by the museum permit one entry per artist. Doors will be closed to watercolors, case-ins, gouaches. Entries may not exceed 72 inches in width or 84 inches in height, but there are no limitations as to subject matter.

The $8,500 in awards, provided by the Museum's Trustees, will be given to four artists. The largest prize is for $3,500, the second, third and fourth prizes are $2,500, $1,500 and $1,000 respectively. Eugene Speicher will serve on the panel of Award Jurors.

Painters Are Cited For War Services

Woodstock, May 22—A number of Woodstock painters have received special notice in Margaret Breuninger's column in the May 15 issue of the "Art Digest," on a current exhibition entitled "Five Years Later." It presents the work of 16 of A.A.A.'s painters who were variously engaged in the services during World War 2.

"Their war work," writes Miss Breuninger, "is shown in reproduction beside their recent paintings, and the purpose is to indicate the advancement made since that time."

"Fletcher Martin's 'Algiers Bombing' is imbued with the fantasy of conception that gives animation to his 'Victory Procession,' a row of colorful flags that stretch all the way across the canvas."

"Other artists making definite contribution to the impressiveness of the exhibition are Edward Millman, Karl Fortess, Marion Greenwood and Edward Chavez."

Maverick Opening Slated for July 6

Woodstock, May 22—The Loft Players will open their summer season at the Maverick Theatre Thursday, July 6, with the "Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams. The group will open a new play on each Thursday night thereafter and the second offering will be "Alice in Wonderland" to be followed by "Angel Street."

Although plans for the remainder of the schedule are still not quite definite they will present during the summer two one-act plays by J. M. Synge, "Riders to the Sea" and "Shadow of a Glen," as well as the two plays which the group presented in Woodstock in March, "Aria De Capa" by Edna St. Vincent Millay, "Don Perlimpin and Belisa" by Federico Garcia Lorca, and a comedy not yet selected.

Aligen B. Cramer of Woodstock, who will appear with the group, reports that they are looking for new scripts preferably by Woodstock people.

In addition to the drama schedule, three different puppet shows will be presented at the Maverick Theatre by the Berkely Marionettes. With Saturday matinees only, the shows will be "Master Skylark," "Toby Tyler and the Circus" and "Tom Sawyer."

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

On July 4, 1776, the delegates to the Second Continental Congress, sitting in Philadelphia, signed the Declaration of Independence. Thus they announced to the world that henceforth the American Colonies intended to be politically independent.

Since that date July 4th has been celebrated every year as Independence Day.

This year, as every year, on July 4th millions of Americans throughout the country will attend patriotic ceremonies at which they will re-affirm their faith in this nation's independence, and pledge their allegiance to America. Millions of others who will read about them in the papers will privately affirm their loyalty to the American way of life.

This year every American will have an opportunity to assert his faith in America and its future, and at the same time take a step forward toward a more secure future for himself and his family. He will have this opportunity because July 4, 1950, marks the climax of the Savings Bonds Independence Drive. During this drive every American is urged to buy an extra Savings Bond.

Today, in 1950, Savings Bonds are a symbol of independence, financial independence. Savings Bonds are owned by 80 million Americans who are shareholders in America. Savings Bonds, serving as reserves against individual wants and needs, help to assure our nation of continued prosperity and only in a prosperous nation can freedom and independence thrive.

U. S. Savings Bonds are one of the soundest investments which you, as an American, can make. By buying Savings Bonds you not only strengthen the nation's economy, but you also build toward the financial independence of yourself and your family.

By buying an extra Savings Bond during the Independence Drive, you can advance a step nearer financial independence. The "Glorious Fourth" can be the fourth dollar you receive for every three you invest in the country of Independence and freedom. We urge you to celebrate Independence Day by buying an extra U. S. Savings Bond before July 4, 1950.

WORLD'S GREATEST CITY

New Yorkers are trying to brace themselves against a disappointment. The new census figures, while not announced, are rumored to give the city less population than it had been counting on. Instead of over 8,000,000 people, the final figure is now estimated at 7,750,000.

How does that leave New York with regard to London? That question is easier to ask than to answer. London is made up of various boroughs, metropolitan districts, etc. These are often lumped together as Greater London. The 1931 census, the last taken (the war having stopped the enumeration of 1941), put the total at 8,203,042. This would be well beyond New York, and accounts for New Yorkers' shock at finding that they have not yet caught up with the historic city across the seas.

Of course there is a Greater New York. If the adjacent communities in New Jersey and Connecticut are counted in, the 1940 total would be 11,690,520. That brings up the question, however, where to stop. Perhaps Greater London could include a few more boroughs, and produce a Super-Greater London.

And why should any resident want more people in either? Both are crowded to the uttermost.

RUSSIAN FARMS

A drive for larger collective farms is on in Russia. Nikita S. Krushchev of the Politburo has been appointed to take charge of agricultural policy, replacing Andrei A. Andreyev, who was inclined to tolerate the smaller farm unit.

Russian newspapers report that the members of small collective farms are voting enthusiastically to merge with larger units.

THE RECORD SPEAKS

To understand the present confusions concerning McCarthy-Lattimore-Tydings-Budenz, et al, one must go back far into the record.

I have before me the proceedings of the special committee of the Committee on Military Affairs of the House of Representatives, dated February 27, 1945. It is a record of confusion. Here is a desire, during actual war, to discover subversive elements in our armed forces.

The witness is John J. McCloy, then assistant secretary of war, now our representative in Germany, a man of brilliant mind and devotion to his country. It is good to have such an instance because there can be no reflection on the man; his record is too fine. It makes possible an objective study.

In this testimony is an instruction from Brigadier General Robert H. Dutton which states: "No action will be taken . . . that is predicated on membership in or adherence to the doctrines of the Communist party unless there is a specific finding that the individual involved has a loyalty to the Communist party as an organization which overrides his loyalty to the United States. No such finding should be based on the mere fact that the individual views on various social questions have been the same as the views which the Communist party may have advanced."

This instruction does two things: First, it eliminates any consideration of the history of the Bolshevik movement since 1903, which proves that no Communist can place his country above the party. No person in the world can be a member of international communism who does not accept party above country. The correctness of this can be fully documented both by written word and historic acts.

To eliminate that from consideration of a Communist's affiliation is to give the case away.

Secondly, it eliminates proof by association. As usually no other proof is available, it becomes hopeless in most cases to establish the fact by rules of evidence.

Mr. McCloy commented:

"In dealing with individuals suspected of communism or communist beliefs, obvious difficulties confronted the army. In the first place, it was necessary to assume the Hatch Act to apply to membership in the Communist party which the attorney general found administratively to advocate the overthrow of our government by violence in order to bar service in the army. There is some doubt whether the Hatch Act does apply."

"Experience demonstrated the virtual impossibility of developing actual legal proof of such membership on the basis of persons desiring to conceal their membership."

Precisely. As long as proof by association was eliminated, there could be no evidence. All a man had to say was, "It ain't so." That established his position. Mr. McCloy further said:

"There was evidence that the Communist party took action to prevent the application of the Hatch Act to its members in the army by giving them leaves of absence in such manner as to constitute at least a suspension, if not an annulment, of membership."

Under this curious and weak procedure, all a man had to do was to withdraw from active membership for a 24-hour period and during that time, he could swear that he did not belong. An action could not be used as proof, there could be no proof but the man's word. Communists rarely do things that are crimes under our laws, no matter how harmful they may be. For instance, slanting a textbook to corrupt the minds of our children is neither a felony nor a misdemeanor.

The entire subject was summed up in the colloquy between Congressman Thompson and Mr. McCloy:

"Mr. Thompson: Then . . . if a man said he was a Communist, or there was some evidence that he was affiliated with the so-called Communist party, you would not necessarily hold that that man belongs to a political party that favors overthrow of our government?"

Mr. McCloy: We cannot take that position in the light of the great confusion that exists in the judicial tribunals of the country as to whether that is a tenet of the Communist party or not."

I go into the past and deal with men who are blighted neither by suspicion nor by political partisanship. I indicate the confusion, the difficulty of proving anything, the need for a thorough, objective study of this problem to establish the pattern of infiltration.

That Body of Yours

EARLY ELECTRIC SHOCK TREATMENT

I have written several times about the operation prefrontal lobotomy—cutting certain nerves in the brain to give relief from deep grief and anxiety. When this operation was first performed a few years ago it was found that while it gave complete relief from these distressing symptoms it left the patient almost childlike and without any feeling of responsibility. This condition was, of course, much better than having the individual grief stricken and anxious all the time. Fortunately it has been found that many of these patients who have undergone the operation become almost normal and resume their former occupations or places in the community.

Although this operation has been effective in relieving grief and fear, some research workers in neurology (nervous structure) and psychiatry (human behavior) state that if the shock treatment, so successful in mental cases is used early, there would be less need for this operation of prefrontal lobotomy.

In "The Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Theodore T. Stone and B. Cullen Burns, Chicago, state that many of these cases of melancholia (deep grief and anxiety) have other ailments present and so much time is lost in treating these other ailments that the melancholia does not get the immediate treatment that would give relief, that is, shock treatment. These physicians state that these mental patients are treated for such conditions as diabetes, high blood pressure, symptoms following the menopause, sugar in the urine, gall bladder disorder and others.

Because this type of mental disease in its early form or stages responds so readily to electric shock, the general practitioner should be aware of the early symptoms.

Some of the early signs of melancholia are: Slowness in walking, talking and answering questions, staring expression, with glassy eyes; loss of appetite and weight; nervousness (tenseness and panic) at night; feeling better in the afternoon.

All patients with these early and late signs of depression and grief should be given a course in electric shock treatment at once, followed, if this fails, by insulin shock treatment. Drs. Stone and Burns report that 48 of 50 of these mental patients, so treated, recovered.

A Glimpse Under the Curtain

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — A sensational story was flashed out of Detroit recently that the army has developed a magic nerve gas which destroys the will to resist and makes war painless.

The story grew out of a remark by Maj. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe, chief of the army chemical corps, who happened to mention nerve gases at the American Chemical Society's annual meeting in Detroit. The sensational details about making war painless, however, were supplied by an imaginative reporter.

Inside facts about the army's new nerve gases are sensational, all right, but exactly opposite to what the press reported. The gases do not cause a gentle sleep and do not pay the way for bloodless conquest. Instead, they drive men mad, turn them into raging lunatics before killing them.

The army's experiments have been based on two nerve gases developed by the Germans and still known by their German names—tabun and sarin. These are fiendishly lethal gases, depending upon the dose. A small whiff will cause severe headache, nausea and chest congestion. A few extra whiffs will attack the optic nerve and cause blindness, then degenerate vital brain cells, until the victim loses his sanity. Homocidal tendencies are supposed to result.

Gas masks are no protection from tabun and sarin, which seep into the body through the skin pores. Protective clothing has been developed, however, that will help.

Russians Have Secret, too?

The army is now using goats, rabbits and rats to experiment with tabun and sarin at Dugway proving ground in the barren Utah desert. The gases are invisible and difficult to detect, though army scientists who have gotten a whiff of escaping tabun say it smells faintly like "juicy fruit" chewing gum.

The Germans turned over 200-pound and 500-pound tabun gas bombs to the U. S. Army after V-E Day—bombs which had never been used for fear of retaliation—though captured German documents show that Propaganda is relatively cheap. It costs little to send radio waves into western Europe, or send Communist speakers among the ranks of labor. The Marshall ganda Minister Joseph Goebbels urged that Hitler resort to tabun in the last, desperate days.

German officers handling the tabun bombs were deathly afraid of them, warned that they might explode if left in the sun too long.

Inasmuch as the Russians took over German war secrets, it is safe to assume that Russians have been experimenting with tabun and sarin in the same way we are doing.

Note—Dr. Albert Speer, former Reichminister of armament, told allied authorities he had planned to kill Hitler with tabun by filtering it into his ventilating system. But Hitler built a protective chimney around the ventilating funnel before Dr. Speer could carry out his plot.

Harry's Whistle-Stop

Whether you agree with President Truman or not, any fair-minded political observer will agree that when Harry gets out among the folks, it does something both for him and for them.

He is like Antaeus who got new strength every time he was thrown to earth, and whom Hercules could not vanquish until he held him over his head away from the earth.

Likewise Harry Truman is strongest when he gets away from his palace guard of cronies and sticks close to the earthy people from whom he came and to whom he belongs. They give him almost a spiritual lift, and he in turn gives them a political lift as far as his popularity and the Democratic party are concerned.

This, of course, is something for the Republicans to worry about. However, in these days of new and fiendish poison gases, there is also something else for all of us to worry about—namely, the way of neutrality that is sweeping western Europe.

Carefully nurtured by the Communist party and by the Moscow radio, many Europeans have come to believe that the U.S.A. is the world's worst warmonger and that western Europe is foolish to get in the middle of a clash between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

Propaganda is relatively cheap. It costs little to send radio waves into western Europe, or send Communist speakers among the ranks of labor. The Marshall Plan costs us billions annually and has done a great job in rebuilding Europe. But we have received little credit for it, because we haven't accompanied it by the proper sales campaign.

Soap and Peace

No good American business firm ever curtails advertising for long; but many Republican congressmen, influenced in part by business, voted to curtail the State Department's sales campaign to Europe. Several years ago, a well-known American soap cut down its advertising on the theory that enough Americans were sold on the fact that "It floats." Sales immediately dropped, and that company has come back as a big advertiser since.

All this is by way of saying that the United States has to sell its peaceful aims, its generosity, its constructive moves to rebuild the world, not once, but all the time. It can never stop.

Furthermore, we have to think up new sales ideas, new advertising gimmicks regarding our peace aims, just as a manufacturing company thinks up new promotional plans to sell its goods.

So here is a suggestion: President Truman, a down-to-earth, likable gentleman, who goes over great with the plain people, should go to Europe this fall or summer to make a whistle-stop tour.

If he visited not merely the big capitals, but took a train through the heart of France, Belgium, The Netherlands, stopping at little stations along the way, he could do a great selling job for his country and a far greater service than touring our own western states.

I personally have spoken from flat cars in the railroad station of the cities of France and Italy and I know how the people welcome anyone who deals not government-to-government but people-to-people.

And Harry Truman, I predict, giving off-the-cuff, down-to-earth, sincere, straight-from-the-shoulder facts about what the American people have already done for Europe, and the reasons why we have done it, would become the world's No. 1 salesman of democracy and would style the Moscow radio for months to come.

No Limit Seems Fixed to Usury Practised by Government on 'Interest on Taxes'

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22—Members of Congress are supposed to represent a spendthrift administration even when it comes to the simple question of usury.

For centuries past usury has been an opprobrious term applied to excessive interest. It used to be practiced mostly by individual money-lenders. Modern society has applied limits to the amount of interest that can be charged by individuals or banks—but there apparently is no limit to the usury that is practiced by the government of the United States itself in the guise of interest on taxes.

Congress rightfully imposes a penalty for failure to pay taxes on time but, with the ambiguity of language in the tax laws now a-days, years pass before it can be determined in many instances whether the taxpayer owes money to the government or the government owes money to the taxpayer.

Once the amount due is determined—sometimes four or five years after a tax return is filed—then the taxpayer is charged 6 per cent interest for all the time the government has taken to make up its mind as to what is really due. Some taxpayers pay as high as 30 per cent interest in cases undetermined for five years.

Sometimes the government has to make a refund and up to now it has been argued that, since the government pays 6 per cent interest in cases undetermined for five years.

Sometimes the government has to make a refund and up to now it has been argued that, since the government pays 6 per cent interest on refunds, it is logical that the taxpayer should pay 6 per cent on any sums that are determined finally as owing to the government.

But the House Ways and Means Committee last week voted to reduce from 6 per cent to 2 per cent the interest that the government will hereafter pay the taxpayer on refunds while retaining the 6 per cent rate of interest on anything the taxpayer owes the government.

This is offered brazenly as a means of raising revenue. The usury of ancient days also wanted to raise money by manipulating the interest rates. Thus, in the future—unless the House of Representatives or Senate votes it down—when the government has a refund to make the interest will be in favor of the government.

And when the taxpayer has extra taxes to pay the interest will also be in favor of the government.

It would be far better and cleaner if Congress passed a law flatly penalizing a taxpayer a certain percentage for making a mistake in figuring his taxes. At least, this would have the virtue of candor. But to collect revenue in the guise of "interest" from taxpayers who make a conscientious effort to pay the treasury what the best advice from tax experts tells them to pay is to use the interest device as a punitive measure.

The taxpayer is quite willing to pay his taxes if the government will tell him promptly that he has made an error. In fact, there would not be the slightest objection probably from most taxpayers if they are required to pay six per cent interest on any sums determined within a year to have been due. But when the government takes four or five years to make up its mind what is really due, then the taxpayer is being penalized six per cent a year for waiting on governmental red tape to get an answer.

Under present practice, the taxpayer and the government have three years in which to revise or correct tax returns and ask for refunds or be required to pay extra sums, whichever the case may be. This is because the "statute of limitations" on tax returns is filed March 15, 1947, were open for change until March 15, 1950, but just a few weeks before the latter date the government presented tens of thousands of taxpayers with what is known as a "waiver" requiring the taxpayer to agree to a three-year extension "or else." The general opinion among tax lawyers is that the waiver is a form of "blackmail" which would be frowned upon in business or divorce but the government gets away with it on the plea that it hasn't got around to settling outstanding returns and needs more time.

A simple solution of the problem would be to keep the interest rate at six per cent on returns as well as on deficiencies when the return is determined within one year from the filing of the income-tax returns. Anything which was determined within two years would take a four per cent rate and anything beyond two years would be a three per cent rate. The return was filed till the date of determination of the amount due.

This would serve as an incentive to the government to clear up all pending cases promptly and in business or divorce but the government gets away with it on the plea that it hasn't got around to settling outstanding returns and needs more time.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York, (UP)—Film star Larry Parks says there "should be a law to make actors live sensibly—for their own good."

"It's almost an industry-wide practice now to encourage an actor to live over his head and beyond his means," he said.

"There is always pressure to buy a bigger house—to do this, to do that."

"But if he plays the game that way the actor finds he is never really economically stable. He can't afford to turn down a bad picture because he is always in need of money."

"The only way he can beat the game is not to play it."

Larry, who just finished "That Bedside Manner" for Columbia Pictures, passed through here on the way to a four-week stage tour of Great Britain with his wife, Betty Garrett, the musical comedy star.

"When we get back we're going to do a picture together on our own," he said. "It'll be a three-partner enterprise—Larry, Betty and their lawyer, I understand."

"If the picture isn't good, at least we won't be able to blame anyone else," said Parks. "When you're using your own money, you have to do as well as you can. If you lose it, you're dead on the first one."

Saves Simplicity

Larry and his wife saved a nestegg for their venture by living as simply as possible.

"We don't have the brain of keeping a $100,000 home," he said. "We've probably have the smallest house in Hollywood. We can turn the key in the lock when we leave, and it won't cost us more than $32 a month while we're away—including taxes."

"You just have to decide what kind of life you want," remarked Betty, who shares her husband's views.

Larry has had a wry interest in the financial rewards of acting ever since his first movie role. It was a B-level picture. Larry got $2,500 a day for playing a Roman soldier—and they learned that a camel on the set was getting $50 a day for playing a camel.

Jolson Story Made Him

Parks, who has appeared in 40 pictures in 9 years, served a rough apprenticeship in 28 B-grads before catching the public eye in "The Jolson Story."

His years of struggling for recognition in B pictures paid off as he finally says himself, "Kind of shipped on the subject of security for actors."

He gave these figures:

"There are 7,500 members of the Screen Actors Guild, and they average less than $2,000 a year."

"Twenty per cent of the people who come out to Hollywood under contract are gone within a year. And most of these people have had some kind of background in their business. Isn't that a frightening statistic?"

By FRANK TRIPP

The queen of America's greatest elephant act of four decades ago was reminiscing, and it had to be about elephants. Jeanne Power is in retirement now, after 40 years of intimate association with elephants, and owner of the best.

She believes that the elephant which crushed the child at Ringling's Sarasoto headquarters had no notion what it was doing. "I have never known an elephant to deliberately step on a person," she said.

Mrs. Power thinks that the elephant could have believed the little victim a ball or some other inanimate object and was trying to possess it by play with it, once the child ventured within the roped-off space. She believes the elephant had no vicious intent; warns all to keep well outside the rope, where they are safe.

"I have only seen one real bad elephant in all my life," she told me. "It was a male and looked like an insane person out of its bloodshot eyes."

"Elephants are much like people," she declares. "They are not treacherous. They do have moods; they pout, they are jealous of one another. They are inquisitive and their old trunk is forever in mischief, like the hands of an active child. They will snoop, pull down lights, open water faucets and undo each other's chairs as children might, but that does not make them bad."

"ELEPHANTS ARE like goats too," she chuckled. "They will eat clothing, blankets and all manner of things. Our Roxie once sneaked, chewed and swallowed a quart jar of jam, the year when our Jopie was lost but she lived for many years. Our Jopie ate a bushel of coal, and another time gulped down a whole barrel of road oil. She was weeks recovering, suffered terrible agony and lost several hundred pounds. She'll still alive, and 86."

Power's Elephants are the ones of which I wrote a recent story. In it I made two statements which Mrs. Power corrects. Ringlings never owned these elephants and I could not have met the sole survivor on a Syracuse street because two of the originals are still living, on the west coast, she reveals.

When Luna Park's founders, Thompson & Dundy, opened the massive New York Hippodrome in 1905, elephants were at once indicated as a must feature of their colossal extravaganza. They engaged one William Walter Power, proud peer of pachydermists, as their elephant impresario.

William, hereafter called "Bill," one of my show days convivial pals, left the Walter L. Main circus, bought its four biggest and best elephants and took them with him to the Hippodrome, hereafter called "The Hip." He was the first American elephant act to appear on an indoor stage.

Power's Elephants, vast ensemble of circus thrillers: Marceline, the clown; Annette Kellerman, a blocking understage lake of water into which a gorgeous ballet danced down an incline disappearing as if into eternity, were many year magnets which reputedly attracted 20 million thrill seekers. Power's Elephants became the Hip's forefront symbol of bigness.

AT THE HIP Bill met a dashing young widow, Jeanne Lush O'Brien, a Brooklyn girl who was of the show. She had a young son, George. Bill married her and to them came another son, Tom. Bill, Jeanne, George and Tom and four "knowing" elephants, Lena, Annie, Ada and Lou, were destined to approach world-wide fame. Julia and Roxie later replaced Ada and Lou, and George replaced good old Bill.

When Bill died in 1920, Jeanne carried on. George took Bill's last name and long before Bill's death had become a greater trainer than his stepfather. It was George who taught Jeanne's elephants to play baseball, bowl, to walk, two-step and do the Charleston. George taught them stunts of which Bill had never dreamed.

The story of Power's Dancing Elephants stands way out front in the saga of elephant wisdom. For two score years they entertained two continents. They played year 'round in theatres, circuses, fairs and bull rings at weekly salaries of $1,500 and $2,000. They yearly earned more than the President, and in their careers as much as Man o' War.

They went to Europe in 1926 and remained eleven years in England, Scotland, Wales, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, Sweden and Denmark.

AND NOW, Jeanne Power, great grandmother of twelve children, lives above the Hudson's Palisades with her cherished memories of the circus and theatre; which go back to her girlhood, when she was a little equestrienne and rode for Barnum & Bailey on their European tour of 1897.

Of her original elephants, Lena and Jennie still live. Ada and Lou died first of pneumonia. Roxie, a replacement, lived to be almost 100. Lena 93 and Jennie 86, with Julia, a youngster at 67, are the three with which Jeanne Power parted in 1944—with broken heart.

It meant the end of her exciting life. Her son George, whose sickness forced the parting, is in Will Rogers Memorial Hospital. Tom is in the Army. Time and three world-famed elephants march on.

March is the right word, for they do not dance any more. Without George, they only march and maybe their hearts are breaking too. "They are just horded circus elephants now. I cried when I saw them," Jeanne Power said to me. Then she smiled, as show folks must and added, "but they looked well fed."

Refutes Statements

May 19th, 1950

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter is being written to refute some incorrect statements contained in the letter, published on May 13th, from the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, A. F. of L., and signed by George E. Yerry, Jr., President. We would appreciate it if this letter could also be published.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce did not "sponsor" the Apple Blossom Festival.

The several parts of the Hudson Valley Apple Blossom Festival held in Kingston on May 6th, were sponsored by two separate volunteer committees, made up of persons who helped promote Ulster County and the Hudson Valley as a major fruit growing region without compensation for their time or travel expense. The Ulster County Committee arranged for Ulster County's participation and the Hudson Valley Committee representing five counties, sponsored the main event. The funds were raised in two ways. One was by public spirited citizens subscribing voluntarily to memberships in the Ulster County Council, Inc. The other was admissions to the Ulster County Queen selection contest on April 21st, at which a 10-piece orchestra was employed by the committee.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce believes that the Apple Blossom Festival, as long as it is held here, is an excellent way to promote Kingston as a wide-awake town, brings us business and promotes the area vacationland. Our staff was instructed to assist the sponsoring committees in every possible way. Our Board of Directors consequently voted to do the same next year if the same committees or any others, are willing to go ahead with plans for another festival. We differ with the opinion expressed that the Chamber of Commerce "exists primarily for the benefit of its dues paying members." We believe that the benefits derived from the broad program planned and carried out by public spirited citizens, who make up our committees, reach far beyond the "dues paying members." We believe that most of those who support the Chamber of Commerce do so as an investment, in community progress and development and not for the benefit derived. Indirectly they do benefit, along with everyone else, as the community prospers. Without this point of view, by the vast majority, our Chamber of Commerce would not be supported by such a broad cross section of our citizens, business, professional and industrial interests.

Very truly yours,
KINGSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, INC.

Job Enthusiasm Is Discussed at Industrial Club

Hendrik van Laer, storage consultant and training specialist for the Department of the Army at Schenectady General Depot, last Thursday evening spoke to approximately 80 members and guests of the Industrial Management Club of Kingston, at the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. van Laer spoke on the subject: "Creating Job Enthusiasm for Yourself and Others." He pointed out to the executives and supervisors attending the dinner meeting, that before enthusiasm for a job can be created, a man employed in a supervisory capacity should ask himself four questions, namely: "Am I glad that I work for the company? Am I glad that I have the men under my supervision that I have? Are my workers glad they work for the company? Are the people under me glad they have me for a supervisor?"

Mr. van Laer stated further that "successful leadership consists of having unbounded enthusiasm for the job and a natural liking of people." Such qualities are not possessed by every supervisor; but by "putting his mind to it, these can be acquired by any man. . . . We have to concentrate about our job. . . . We have to like our job."

The speaker stressed the fact that "enthusiasm for a job is contagious. If a supervisor has it, the workers catch it with little resistance."

He pointed out the necessity for observing the mental attitudes which develop concerning the job; that they need "guiding into proper channels." By showing the right attitude toward the job, a supervisor can influence his workers and help himself toward the goal of successful leadership.

"When workers will say they are glad they work under a certain man's supervision, that man has reached the goal of successful leadership," the speaker stated.

Mr. van Laer concluded his speech with the remark that "if a job gets you down, get to know the job better. The better you know the job, the better you like it, and the better your workers will like it. In return, they will turn out better and more production; attention on the job cannot be divided; you must concentrate on the job at hand while at work in order to show unbounded enthusiasm for your job."

Following his address, Mr. van Laer spoke briefly concerning the Schenectady General Depot, and the supervisory problems existing at the enormous government installation.

Twice annually, courses are conducted on "Storage Methods and Operations" which may be attended by supervisors of nearby industries. An invitation was extended to any local industry officials interested to write the Commanding Officer, Schenectady General Depot, for full details. The next course will be given to limited groups in October.

Group singing was led by Burton S. Tandy of the "Y," with Rodney DuBois at the piano. Ralph M. Cooper, club president, presided at the business session.

The club now has a total of 98 paid charter members, and it is expected that many more will join before meetings are resumed on September 21.

Plans are being formulated to hold a club field day during the summer, at a date and place to be announced later. The local club has joined the National Council of Industrial Management Clubs, and the charter will be presented at the September meeting. A number of prominent speakers are being engaged for fall meetings, and plans will also include a ladies' night program.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

The subject of public and business psychology is unquestionably of particular significance just at this time.

On a trip to New York this week I had the opportunity of visiting with business-paper editors and one discussion stands out sharply.

One of the widely circulated financial papers has had occasion recently to publish two or three articles that commented upon the outlook for a "depression" ahead. Also, of course, numerous articles have appeared on the optimistic side of the business and economic outlook.

However—and this is the significant point—the requests for reprints that poured in for the "depression" articles have been astonishing to the editors. The interest in a depression, in other words, far overshadows interest in favorable comments.

This reflection of the thinking of readers of economic matters is important for us to analyze, from a contrary-opinion viewpoint.

If there is a widespread fear of and expectancy for "trouble"—if economic-minded people are depression-minded, as the above experience suggests—then we may find that the much-expected slump will again be postponed.

You will doubtless recall that a postwar slump has been expected ever since the war ended. Because a universally expected economic event seldom occurs when it is expected, the present boom may carry longer than most people now believe.

This same intangible cause is undoubtedly the reason why the stock market has remained strong and continues to advance. For many weeks the average market-minded person has looked for a "top" in the market—has anticipated at least what is termed a sharp intermediate reaction, or set-back. Yet, no set-backs of importance have occurred.

You can understand why this contrary development occurs. If people who are trading in the market think a good sized crock is near at hand some are inclined to sell out. Then, too, others who may not have bought stocks have been waiting for that expected "reaction" in order to buy at lower prices.

In the meantime, stock prices continue to edge up—leaving both the sold-out "bulls" and the waiting buyers sitting on the sidelines.

Stock market statistics of recent weeks suggest that the public has come into the market to a certain extent, but other than in television shares there does not appear to have been public speculation to amount to serious proportions.

Caution makes for strong markets, as it prevents reckless speculation.

The same is true of the broader economic swings in trade. So long as businessmen fear that the boom is running out they will be less likely to speculate in inventories, less likely to over-expand or to get "out on a limb." This psychology keeps things more on an even keel of course.

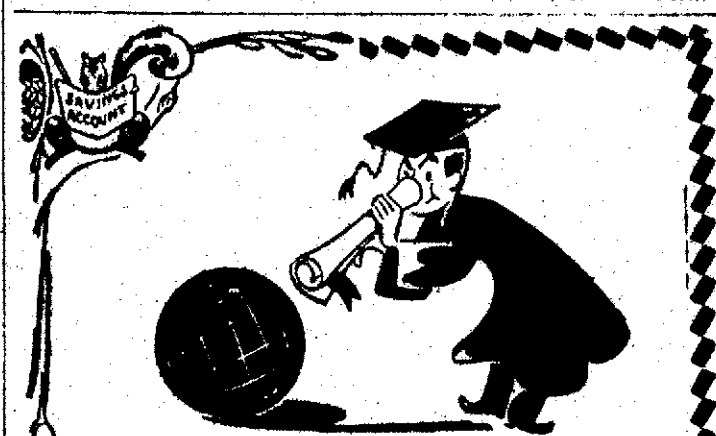

Added to this, is the indication that inflation is once again taking hold of prices. Many important commodities and raw materials have been advancing in price.

The unthinking public, however, continues to buy goods optimistically. If demands for goods remain high and there is little expansion in production—and if at the same time, money is free and easy as at present—then inflation has a very good chance of catching on.

It is from these contrary viewpoints that we have to take our cues today, because much is apparently going on under the surface that is not commonly noticed. As a final thought, the weather conditions—dry growing weather in some sections and disastrous floods in others—seem destined to cut the grain crops sharply. This will tend to hold up grain prices even in the face of government surpluses.

Retains Water Experts
New York, May 22 (AP)—New York city, plagued by depleted reservoirs since last fall, has retained five nationally known experts as

Vets Are Advised On G.I. Insurance

All World War 2 veterans who previously had National Service Life Insurance or to those veterans who had none, but who are eligible to apply, were urged today to seriously consider the inexpensive protection it affords ones' dependents.

Director Howard Shuter of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency pointed out that the main purpose of insurance is to provide the beneficiaries part of the income lost through the untimely death of the insured. "There is no insurance policy," he said, "which gives such complete coverage as inexpensively to the insured as does N.S.L.I. This insurance can be reinstated in multiples of $500, with a minimum of $1,000, and the only requirements are that you pass a physical examination and payment of two monthly premiums."

Director Shuter advised that applications for reinstatement or new policies under N.S.L.I. and full information pertaining to this matter can be obtained by visiting the local Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main street or any of the branch offices in Saugerties, Ellenville, Highland or Kerhonkson.

A great American general once said that his object in a battle was to "get there fastest with the mostest." The same principle often applies to bridge, especially in the play of notrump hands.

The object of the defenders in most notrump hands is to establish a long fit and then run it. The object of the declarer may be to get there first with his own long suit. This is not always won by the longer suit. It may be won by the suit that gets there first.

In today's hand, South made use of a very fine play to delay the enemy, once this type of play is often possible in a regular game, it is worth a second look from over bridge player.

West opened the eight of spades, obviously his highest card in his partner's bid suit. South counted his trumps and realized that the game depended on bringing in his club at before the opponents could bring in the spades.

For this reason, declarer carefully played in queen of spades from the dummy at the first trick. East had to play his ace, since otherwise declarer would make two spade tricks. However, East could not turn a spade. If he led a low spade, South would play low, and dummy's ten would win a trick. If he returned the jack of spades, South would win with the king, for which dummy's ten would be high.

The fact that East could not return a spade to the second trick gave declarer the time to make his contract. East actually led a club (the other return would have helped), and West took his ace.

POISON
IVY

Science has discovered an excellent new treatment for ivy, oak and sumac poisoning. It's gentle, safe, and it works in a surprisingly short time—often within 24 hours. At drug stores.

Ask for IVY DRY

West dutifully returned his remaining spade, and East was now able to drive out South's king. Unfortunately for East, it was too late. South had won the race of suit against suit, and he could take his clubs then and there. He was able to cash three clubs, four diamonds, one heart and one spade. As the play actually developed, South made an extra trick by catching East in an end-play.

Far from making an extra trick, South would not even have made his contract if he had played anything but the queen of spades from the dummy at the very first trick. For example, if dummy had played a low spade, East would have taken low, and South would have played his king. Whenever South led clubs, West would take his ace and lead his remaining spade. This would allow East to take the rest of the suit.

Curiously enough, South might have made his contract by allowing West's eight of spades to hold the first trick. South would win the second spade and then knock out the ace of clubs. West would win that trick but would be unable to lead another spade. This line of play would fail, however, if the ace of clubs happened to be in the East hand. The play of the queen of spades at the first trick assured the contract no matter which opponent had the ace of clubs.

HOME BUREAU

Attend Annual Meeting

On May 16 and 17 the 29th annual meeting of the Eastern District Home Bureau Federation was held at the U. S. Hotel Thayer, West Point. About 115 Ulster County Home Bureau members attended the meeting. The theme for the meeting was "Know thyself and go forward."

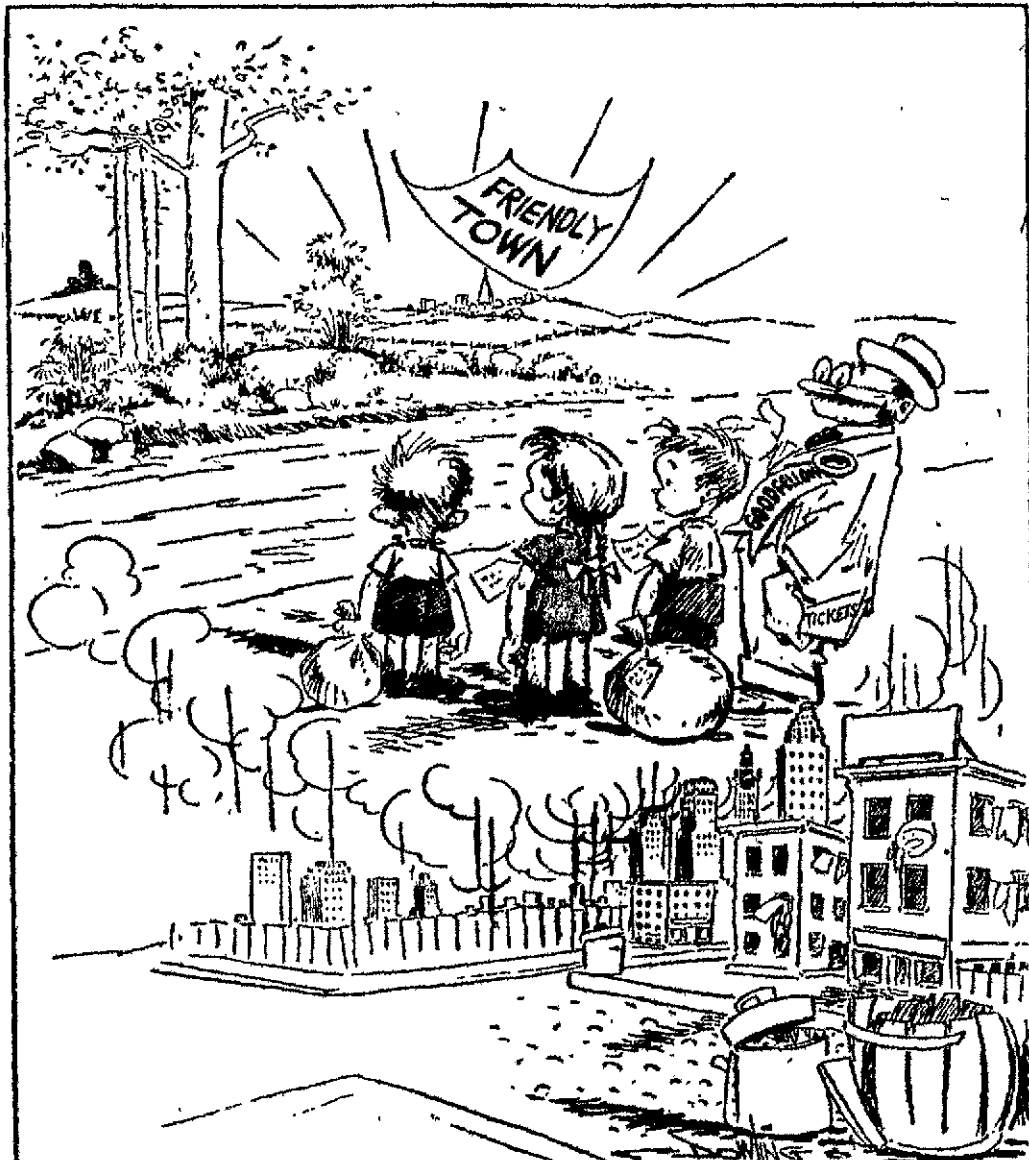

Mrs. William Powers of Kingston, who is the chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau executive committee, was a delegate and gave the county report on the clothing program. The following members modeled garments: Mrs. Earl Haley of Ellettsville, apron; Mrs. Thomas Goodman of Lake Katrine, better cotton dress; Mrs. Otto Orlovski of Plattekill, blouse and skirt; and Mrs. Irma Connor and Mrs. Nellie Vag Lengen, of Tamaqua, tailored suits.

Eighteen counties in the Eastern District gave reports of the work they are doing within their counties.

Donna Elizabeth Lee Vincent, College of Home Economics, Cornell University, Miss Laura Lane, associate editor of the "Country Gentleman," and Mrs. Ralph Ried, president of the New York State Federation of Home Bureaus, discussed various facts of the status of women in the world today, their need for understanding themselves and others and the part played in international affairs.

PRETTY IS AS PRETTY DOES

Last summer a famous actress invited a group of friends to an elaborate dinner party at her Long Island home. With the exception of her lawyer, no one showed up, and at 10 o'clock that night she suffered a heart attack and died.

The obituary notices made no mention of the party which no one attended for the very good reason that the lawyer kept mum about it. But last night he told me the whole story and gave me permission to use it, provided I didn't identify the actress by name.

Harriet Reeves—to give her a name several syllables removed from her own—was an orphan who had come up the hard way and acquired a lot of hard ways en route, such as stealing scenes and marches on other actors, walking all over the walk-ons, and in general making life unbearable for everyone from porter to producer.

Even more than her tantrums, however, the thing that embittered everyone around her was her blithe way of making promises and her blither way of breaking them. Her stock excuse was that she was forgetful, but as a columnist of the period pointed out, she never forgot to ask for an unreasonable percentage of the plays she appeared in, or to make sure that no other name was featured with hers on a marquee.

As her slights and overights continued to pile up, people assumed they were due to deliberate meanness—and for the first few years they were. Then a curious thing happened—her forgetfulness, at first convenient, became chronic, and the actress became so much a victim of her own mental untidiness that she couldn't even remember the things she wanted to.

In her middle 50's, her heart began to do nip-ups, and under doctors' orders she retired. She had plenty of money and so life was comfortable enough, but this time everyone in the theatre hated her with a hatred which didn't even bother to be cordial and so life was lonely enough, too.

A year ago last April her birthday came and went without so much as a friendly flower or phone call, and that night, brooding about it, she had a heart attack. The physician who examined her told her bluntly that her chances of living out the year were none too good and advised her to stay in bed as much as possible.

Harriet faced up to the news like a trouper, and for a couple of weeks followed the doctor's instructions, but the prospect of dying in complete isolation finally got her, and so one day she sent for her attorney.

"I want to give a big party next Saturday night," she said, "and I'd like to see some of my old friends."

"What's the occasion?" asked the lawyer.

"Nothing in particular," said Harriet. "It gets kind of lonesome out here and I'd like to see some of my old friends."

That night the old actress wrote out invitations to dozens of theatre people with whom she had worked, figuring that if she could get them all together she'd apologize for her thoughtlessness in the past and ask their forgiveness.

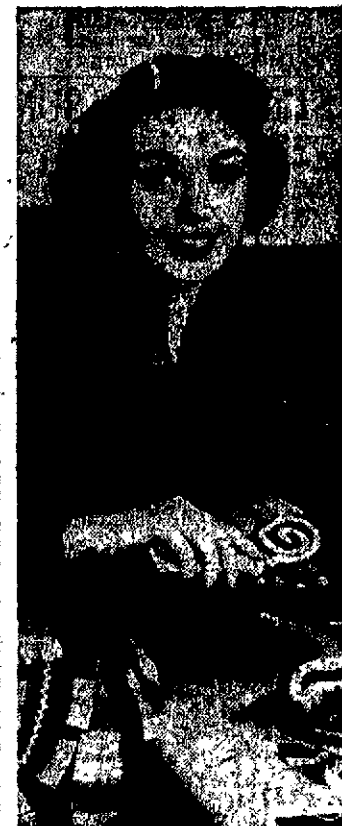

At 8 o'clock on Saturday when the musicians arrived, the downstairs rooms were decorated with theatre posters of her past hits, and Harriet, in a sweeping black lace gown, was in the hallway with her lawyer, waiting for the first guest to arrive.

At 10 o'clock she told the servants and musicians to help themselves to the food and drinks, and, assisted by the attorney, began to climb the stairs to her bedroom.

"I can hardly blame them for not coming," she said. "I used to break plenty of dates myself."

Halfway up, she grabbed for the banister, and by the time her doctor arrived she was dead. Her lawyer made a routine check of the papers in her desk, he came across an ironic footnote to her lifetime of forgetfulness. It was the stack of invitations to the party which Harriet had stamped and addressed—but forgotten to mail.

SQUEEZE ON MUSTARD—Already accustomed to brushing his teeth with Dad's shaving cream, Junior now faces the possible hazard of encountering Mom's mustard in a squeeze-out tube. Priest Says Chavez
'Spoke Out of Turn'

New York, May 22 (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest said yesterday that Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N. M.) spoke out of turn in "attacking the integrity of the conversion" of Louis Budenz, who broke with the Communists and returned to the Catholic faith.

The Senator, a Catholic, was criticized by the Rev. Edward Lodge Curran at a Communion breakfast.

The priest declared: "Senator Chavez, instead of attacking the integrity and honesty of the conversion of Budenz, should be down in Washington working to remove the Communists put in positions of trust in our government by his (Democratic) political party."

Father Curran said Chavez "is more interested in his own political party than in routing the Reds from Washington."

The priest's criticism arose from Chavez' recent charge that Budenz, former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker, used the Catholic Church as "a cloak and a shield" to protect himself in giving "un-American, un-Christian, dubious testimony."

Budenz, now on the faculty of Fordham University, has appeared as a witness several times in investigations of Communist activities.

Father Curran defended Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) in connection with his charges of Communist infiltration into the State Department.

The priest, pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Brooklyn, spoke before 500 members of the Catholic Guild of Western Union Telegraph Company employees at their annual Communion breakfast.

Eight Kingstonians Attend Institute Of County W.C.T.U.

Eight Kingston members attended the Ulster County W.C.T.U. Institute held Friday at Plattekill, and were given glimpses of the World Convention to be held at Hastings, England, in June. Many national and state representatives, including New York state's president, Miss Helen G. Estelle, of Poughkeepsie, have already arrived in England.

Mrs. Robert Lent, of Emerson street, was hostess to Kingston W.C.T.U. recently. Arrangements were made for an open meeting to be held June 19 in St. James Methodist Church school room where two recently released color films will be shown.

The National Safety Council states that a drinking driver or pedestrian is involved in one out of every four fatal auto accidents. Mrs. Elizabeth Conaro told the meeting of a novel method developed by Hon. Fred G. Johnson, county judge of Adams county, Nebraska, for dealing with drunk drivers. He enforces the following penalties against all drunk drivers: a fine of $50 and a minimum of 10 days. Most offenders get 15 days. Second offenders, $200 fine, and 45 days in jail, license suspended for 12 months. Third offense: There is none, Mrs. Conaro said.

Mrs. Conaro said that during the five years Judge Johnson has been on the bench, Adams county has had no traffic fatalities or serious smash-ups, as a result of drunk driving. She quoted him as saying: "I have had attorneys plead that their clients are good citizens. Driving while intoxicated is being a bad citizen."

Mrs. William Whiston and Mrs. O. B. Smith were also on the program. The June meeting of the local chapter will be held at the home of Mrs. William J. Whiston.

B'nai B'rith Chapter Adjourns for Summer

B'nai B'rith Chapter adjourned for the summer following a meeting Wednesday night attended by about 75 members. Meetings will resume in September.

Mrs. Florence Powell, president, presided at a short business meeting, after which the meeting was turned over to Rose Netburn, program chairman.

A humorous skit, "The Mad Hatter," was presented by the following cast: Joseph Zeller, gold manager, Sid Warshaw and Esther Newman, saleswomen; Betty Monashafsky, first customer; Ruth Solomon, friend; Rea Taylor, second customer, and Bernice Cohen, third customer. Models were depicted by Harold Newman and Alfred Bender.

Several vocal selections were sung by Henry Levy accompanied on the piano by Barbara Ewig.

The meeting followed a buffet supper, prepared by Anne Rudish, Bert Kelly, Viola Schwartzburg, Rea Taylor, Esther Buck and Esther Newman. The tables were decorated with spring flowers and candles.

SUMMER SHELL COAT SHINES

New York—(NEA)—Here's the long and short of the summer shell coat story. Both are unlined, made of linen-like fabric woven of spun rayon and cotton, and cut full for coolness. The full-length oyster white coat (left) is reminiscent of the 1910 duster. Grouped knife pleats fall from a narrow yoke in front and back to give fullness without losing the straight slim silhouette. Inverted box pleats starting at the dropped shoulder give bunched sleeves extra fullness. Coat is pearl-buttoned from waist to tiny turned-down collar. Similar styling is used for pink smock (right) which can be worn as shown or, for a different silhouette, bloused over a wide belt. The smock looks as smart with skirts as it does with the cinnamon-colored shorts. —KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer.

Miss Anna Macchione Becomes Bride Of John Ferriola at St. Colman's

Miss Anna Macchione, daughter of Mrs. Antoinette Macchione of East Kingston, became the bride of John Ferriola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ferriola of Newburgh, at St. Colman's Church Sunday, May 14. The Rev. Edmund Radford officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Charles Macchione, the bride wore a gown of imported French Chantilly lace over net and tulle, with an off the shoulder neckline and a bertha collar, and peplum, trimmed with seed pearls and bugle beads, long pointed sleeves, and a train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a halo of Chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls and bugle beads. She carried a lace fan with white stephanotis, daisies, and white satin streamers.

Her sister, Jenny Macchione, as maid of honor wore a lavender fitted gown of nylon net over tulle, with a full skirt and off the shoulder neckline. Her hat was a small lavender cloche of horse hair, and she carried a nosegay of yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids wore Marie Pugliese and Theresa Guido, both of East Kingston, who wore gowns of Nile green with hats similar to that of the maid of honor. They also carried nosegays of yellow daisies.

Best man was Tony Colynello of Marlborough and ushers were Sam Velpe and Bob Deneroy of Newburgh.

After a reception at St. Libera's Hall, East Kingston, the couple left for a wedding trip to Canada and Niagara Falls. They will live at 302 Washington street, Newburgh.

Three Students Are Hurt Waterloo, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Three Hobart College students were injured yesterday, and seriously, when their automobile left a highway and overturned. MATERNITY STYLES GET SUMMER LOOK

New York—(NEA)—Smart and practical maternity fashions adapt new summer styles to suit the mother-to-be. Clever design insures a long life for these clothes after the baby comes. Sheer nylon printed in shades of pale green and yellow make the soft, full-skirted dress (left). This dress which boasts nylon's easy washability has a drawstring waistband adjustment cleverly concealed beneath the smartly-styled bow-tied sash. The practical appeal of wardrobe separates is combined in the ensemble (right). A white pique top is shown with a sleeveless pale blue blouse and navy gabardine skirt. The skirt which is cut slim and straight has two zippered closings on each side to permit an expansion of 12 inches around the waistline. —KAY SHERWOOD, NEA Staff Writer.

Good Taste Today

ARM ON DINING TABLE

A mother of young children writes: "I'm trying my best to teach my children to keep their left arm off the table while eating. Am I right?" A neighbor tells me that very well-mannered people do not think it important any more."

Usually a child has a pusher in its left hand. When no pusher is required, a child might quite properly be allowed to rest its wrist against the table's edge or even lay its fingers on the table's edge. A child should not, of course, be permitted to put its elbow or its whole arm on the table, let alone encircle the plate.

Wedding Enclosures Dear Mrs. Post: Where are enclosures put when sent with a wedding invitation?

Answer: When the invitation is folded to fit the envelope, the cards are laid in the fold. When the invitation fits as it is, the cards are put between the face of the invitation and the back of the envelope.

Crossing Legs

Dear Mrs. Post: When isn't it proper for ladies to cross their knees?

Answer: Never on any formal occasion and rarely in public unless they cross so easily as to be practically unnoticeable.

Answering Formal Invitation Dear Mrs. Post: When accepting a formal invitation, is it necessary to repeat everything in the reply? It seems too much to write.

Answer: You write Mrs. John Smith accepts with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Brown's kind invitation to dinner for Thursday, June 8th.

"Spinner Dinner" Dear Mrs. Post: What is a spinner dinner? A friend of my daughter is giving one.

Answer: Personally, I never have heard of this. At a guess, I should say it is a dinner for women alone (Whether or not spinsterhood is a requirement I can't answer).

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Models of formal notes, thank-you notes, and notes of condolence given in her booklet, No. 592, "Letter Writing," may help you. Cerebral Palsy Campaign

Bob Hope, chairman of the National Cerebral Palsy Campaign, in a telegraphic plea for assistance received replies from the following civic leaders of Ulster county: Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, Judge John M. Cashin, Monsignor Martin J. Drury, Conrad J. Hevelman, Dr. Saul Ritchie and Dr. Frank B. Seelye. The local fund-raising campaign was opened here Monday.

First Annual

education facilities can care for only 2,500 of all those affected by cerebral palsy.

There are no treatment centers in Ulster county for either children or adults, according to Dr. Robert H. Broad, Ulster county commissioner of public health, who further says that the rate of officially reported and diagnosed cases is running above the national average rate, as 52 cases have been officially diagnosed in Ulster county so far this year.

Official and unofficial estimates of cases in Ulster county run from 135 to several hundred. Conditions for the care, treatment and education of children affected by cerebral palsy in Ulster County are so inadequate that many mentally normal or mentally superior children are receiving no formal education whatsoever.

Dr. Bibby reports that cerebral palsy, one of the greatest ravagers of early childhood, is caused by faulty development or damage to those parts of the brain which control the muscles. It is not inherited, nor is it contagious. Until recently, comparatively little was known about it, but in recent years progress has been made in the study of the condition and cases formerly considered hopeless are today being diagnosed as susceptible to treatment. Modern techniques are working wonders in teaching CP children to walk, to talk, and to become self-sufficient.

Treatment is costly, involving highly trained teams of workers such as medical specialists, psychiatrists, physiotherapists, occupational therapists, vocational counselors, speech teachers, social workers and specially-trained educators.

The program of the U.C.P.A. is to provide local treatment and school facilities, to finance research for the development of preventive techniques and improved methods of treatment, to foster the establishment of facilities for treatment and education; to provide fellowships for the training of urgently-needed personnel; to maintain a registry of personnel already available, such as physicians, therapists, teachers, psychologists, nurses and social workers; to conduct a program of widespread public education through the use of motion pictures, magazines, television, newspapers, magazines, literature and speakers; and to work with all groups for a total program of help for the cerebral palsied.

The lone identification had come from Theresa Richler, 27, a member of the same church as Lorraine Hess, but two persons who said they saw the girl talking to a man shortly before she was strangled May 13 told police that Albert was not the one.

Police said, too, that two women who had reported they were frightened by a would-be attacker on Millville streets last Friday night also had failed to identify Albert as the man.

'Wight' Russians Wait

These are two of the 31 Russian fishing vessels that anchored off the Isle of Wight, England, ostensibly waiting out rough weather. When nine British warships steamed off for maneuvers with French and Dutch naval units, the fishing fleet followed in the same general direction but was forced back by heavy seas. A British newspaper claimed the vessels may have been sent to provoke a cold war incident. (NBA Telephoto) reasons—which still hold good in the middle of 1950. Among them he listed failure to agree on an atomic control plan, failure to progress toward ending the armaments race, and the tendency of the Soviets, while blocking German and Japanese peace settlements, to isolate themselves increasingly from the rest of the world.

The U. N. report was prepared by the State Department and Mr. Truman submitted it to Congress with a letter setting forth his personal views.

To Strive for U. N.

The letter and report made clear that the President intends to strive for the U. N. as a universal organization—that is, including the Communist as well as the western powers. At the same time he emphasized that within this framework the American government intends to do everything it can to strengthen the west and block present Soviet policies.

Our experiences during 1949 in the United Nations provided further demonstration that, as the secretary of state has recently stated, agreements with the Soviet Union and its satellites are valid only as and when they record existing situations of fact," Mr. Truman said.

"It is not enough to hope for agreement or to make proposals, it is essential to create the conditions under which it will be to the interest of the Soviet Union to enter into and to keep agreements. All international activities which create moral, economic and military strength among the nations of the free world will broaden the area of possible agreement and hasten its coming."

15 Youngsters Drown

Venice, Italy, May 22 (AP)—A children's church procession ended in drowning yesterday when a rickety footbridge over a canal collapsed. Horrified parents and villagers scrambled into the water to save 35 of the marching children, but the 15 victims ranging in age from 11 months to 11 years, were swept to death by the swift waters of the canal at Cannaregio, south of Venice. The 11-month-old child, a boy, was being carried by one of the others.

To Save Excess Fruit

Brussels (AP)—Flying squads with fruit crushing machines will this year save thousands of tons of edible Belgian fruit from rotting through lack of market.

These squads, backed by the ministry of agriculture, will range Belgium's fruit belt during the forthcoming harvest, turning excess apples, pears, cherries, etc., into cider, fruit juice and jam pulp practically in the orchards.

Eloise Mc Hugh, 44, Is Killed

He had dropped the gun. I yelled to Bill Leonard to get the gun, and I ran to the woman.

"I spoke to her, but there was no answer. There was a blood spot on the back of her jacket about the size of a dime, but there was no hole that I observed."

"Tierney yelled to somebody in front of 48 Main street to call an ambulance. Tierney and I stayed with the woman until the ambulance got there."

Large Crowd Gathers

Within minutes a large crowd gathered and several police officers arrived at the scene including Detectives Clarence Biophy and William Krom, Officers Elbert Soper, Guiney Burger, Sr., Ernest Hartoff and others.

The shooting took place within sight of the office of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and the shots were heard in that office. Bruhn arrived at the scene within minutes as did County Investigator Clayton W. Vredenburg and Deputy Sheriff Carl Cline. Photographs were taken of the scene.

Both victims were taken to the Kingston Hospital in the Coroner's Ambulance and Mrs. McHugh was pronounced dead on arrival. Kelly was taken to the operating room and it was later stated that he probably would recover.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and after an investigation withheld a verdict pending an autopsy.

Arrested in May

The tragedy this morning is the culmination of a series of incidents. District Attorney Bruhn stated for some time, it is alleged, Mrs. McHugh had been annoyed by Kelly and on May 2, last, Kelly was arrested on complaint of Mrs. McHugh. That charge was dropped, but Kelly was arraigned in city court on May 4 and at that time an adjournment was taken until June 5 and bail in the sum of $100 fixed. Kelly supplied the bail.

Apparently this morning Mrs. McHugh started for work, traveling along Main street from Wall street. When she had passed a point about mid-way in the block the car operated by Kelly apparently overtook her.

Leonard who was following the Kelly car at some distance, told police he saw the Kelly car stop on the right on Main street not far from St. Joseph's church corner and a shot was fired from the car.

Was Bleeding Profusely

Mrs. McHugh fell to the walk 30 feet away bleeding profusely from a wound on the left side near the heart. Apparently the bullet from the .38 caliber rifle entered the body at the back and came out in front near the heart "apparently striking a pocket-book" which Mrs. McHugh carried under her arm, Coroner Kelly said later. The direct course of the bullet will be determined at the autopsy.

Kelly then stepped from his car, turned the rifle on himself and fired a shot which struck near the right temple. He fell to the street. Leonard then approached and took the rifle from Kelly and turned it over to the police on their arrival. In the Kelly car was a box of ammunition.

According to later information Edward H. Kelly was born in 1899 and now resides at Shokan. Mrs. McHugh survived with four children, three daughters Edna, Sally, Joan and a son, Lawrence.

After the shooting Kelly remained conscious until placed in the ambulance. On arrival of the police he was able to remove his wallet from his pocket and hand it to the officers to establish identification.

Yonkers Man Drowns

Brewster, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—William Fielding, 75, of Yonkers, N. Y., drowned Saturday when an outboard motor boat turned over on Peach Lake near here. Fielding and his son, Norman, 42, of Orchard Place, Yonkers, lost an ear from the boat, police said, and were dumped in the water when they overturned the boat grasping for the oar. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Olday of 6 East avenue, Larchmont, dragged the younger Fielding into their boat. Mrs. Olday dived several times in a vain attempt to rescue the older man.

Is Only 'Light' Model

South Haven, Mich., May 22 (AP)—To the army the Sherman tank is now just a light model—but not to residents of South Haven. One of the 33-ton destroyers ran amok during an Armed Forces Day demonstration here Sunday, flattening two vehicles and badly damaging three others. The driver, Master Sgt. Raymond Gilder, 27, said he lost control of the armored juggernaut after averting it to avoid hitting a car backing out of a parking place.

Colonials Move Into First Place After Gaining Split in Weekend Games

Shatter Moscowitz's Streak, 4-3; Maroon Routs Blues in Track, 62-24

Lose to Bees in 11 Innings, 5-4

Leading the pack by a full length, their manager, Emil Gall making a rapid recovery in Albany Hospital, our Colonials luxuriated in their loftiest position of the season today, following a week-end split in two sensational ball games against Bridgeport Bees and Poughkeepsie Chiefs.

A total of 1,061 spectators witnessed Kingston's even split, a thrilling 4-3 decision over the Chiefs Sunday afternoon and a 5-4 loss to Bridgeport Saturday night.

If census figures are correct, approximately 29,961 Kingstontians missed two of the top contests of the season.

A two-out ninth inning single by Johnny Walther enabled the Colonials to ground "Big Moe" Moscowitz for the first time this season. The big Poughkeepsie right hander had reeled off four straight pitching triumphs.

Artie Applebaum's slick five-hitter was just enough to master the Big Chief.

Saturday night's thriller saw the Colonials stymied in the last of the ninth when Chico Gerard was thrown out at the plate trying to score from base on a single.

Walther Delivers
Sunday's superb pitching duel between Moscowitz and Applebaum ended abruptly in the ninth. With one out, Rudy Karson singled to center, Applebaum sacrificed and Karson jumped home with the winning marker when Walther's liner to right center fell between Jack Sinnott and Bill Polubiatka.

Poughkeepsie tied the score with an unearned run in the eighth on successive miscues by Gerald Murray and Johnny Walther. Underwood was charged with Saturday's loss in relief of Bill McKever.

Waterbury's fourth straight loss, a 17-4 drubbing by the Bristol Owls, enabled the Colonials to climb into first place with a record of eight wins and five defeats. Bridgeport conquered Torrington, 9 to 3, in the other game Sunday.

The highlight of Bristol's victory over Waterbury was a grand slam home run by Dick Kelly during a six-run rally in the second inning. Bridgeport scored three runs in the opening session against Torrington and the losers never recovered. Richie Colombo, Bridgeport twirler, kept 11 bingles scattered.

The Colonials rocked Moscowitz like he's never been rocked before this season in the first two innings but Big Moe rallied with a superb one-hit stint in the next six rounds.

Applebaum's five-hitter for his third straight triumph was a neat job and three snappy double plays in the first five innings eased his chore.

Singles by Harvey Porter and Frank Merola, Chico Gerard's walk and Bill Proski's wild throw to the plate sent the Colonials ahead 2-0 in the Sunday game. They made it 3-0 on a single by Karson, a passed ball and Walther's RBI safety to right. Moscowitz settled down and didn't permit another safety until Gerald Murray's two-out single to right in the eighth.

The Chief's first tally was the result of Red Pope's triple to deep center and an infield out in the third. Jack Sinnott's safety to right delivered Carlo Santiago with the second run in the fourth after the Cuban shortstop drew a walk and advanced on an infield out.

It was 3-3 in the eighth as Big Moe opened with a walk and Polubiatka moved him up a notch with a bunt. Walther elected to head Moscowitz off at third on Danison's rap but Murray dropped the ball. Johnny then let Santiago's DP grounder roll through his legs and Moscowitz was across with the tying run.

Porter and Walther made two hits apiece for the Colonials and the number footed shortstop moved gracefully from post to post in a few minutes. Pope belted a single and triple for the Chiefs.

Underwood Loses
Bridgeport won the 11-inning Saturday contest when Underwood walked Neri and apparently had things under control with successive strikeouts of Jim Wallace and Jim Paulus. Neri stole second.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The stock reply we have to the eternal question (Do the Colonials have a good ball club?) is this: Go on up to municipal stadium and take a look-see. They didn't achieve that 7-3 getaway record with mirrors. If every legitimate baseball fan in Kingston paid one visit to the stadium, just to satisfy his curiosity, it would mean a 5,000 base for attendance figures.

The poor weather alibi is thinning out and now is the time for all good baseball fans to trek to the municipal stadium.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Despite a lowly 1-4 standing in the DUSO Baseball League, Coach Bill Burke is busy with pitchers. His four starters are front line fighters in any league—Lefty Ted Schwamb, Bert Kuhn, Jerry Bechtold and Big Joe Pecora. Henry Levy, who gave great promise a year ago, can't crash the starting array. Meanwhile, Bud Scheffel is lathering the horseshoe like few Maroon hitters of recent vintage. Any left hand youngster who can poke triples into the left field corner off southpaw pitching must have a pretty fair batting eye. That Illinois man who said he turned robber because he lost his health has been confined to his room for ten days. Benny Bergman, the appointment as manager of the Houston Bulls of the Texas League recalls his sensational pro basketball career with "Pop" Morganewick's Colonials and his early appearance in Kingston as a shortstop with the famous Doherty Six of Paterson. Bennah, a set shooter deluxe in basketball, wasn't considered an outstanding baseball prospect in those days but he managed to get steady employment as high as the International League. He has been affiliated with the St. Louis Cardinal chain for nearly 20 years.

The Nineteenth Hole:

Bill Shields, crack Albany amateur graduate of the junior ranks, is a prime favorite to land one of the qualifying spots for this year in the U. S. Open. Alex Gerlak, hitting the ball 20 to 25 yards farther than last year off the tee, is in heavy training for the qualifying play. In his brilliant saga of golf, "30 Years of Championship Golf", Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire, points out that while the peerless Walter Hagen soundly trounced Bobby Jones (11 and 10) in their only head-to-head match, the Hag never won a U. S. Open in which the Grand Slam artist was entered. Jones, now recuperating from a spinal operation in Boston, won five Opens. In Sarazen's book, pardon the pun, the U. S. Open is the greatest title in golf. Dr. Holcomb, Jr., and the Willwyck tournament committee are off to a good start in what promises to be Willwyck's liveliest season. Pro Tommy Danaher reports high interest in the royal and ancient tradition. The new putting green at Willwyck is getting heavy play these days.

Having enough worries trying to keep the Yankees in first place, we seldom get embroiled in National League speculation or arguments. But we must observe, what kind of race would the senior circuit have if the Dodgers got some real pitching. President Jimmy Roosevelt's schedule woes will be serious if the twilight league runs into another streak of bad weather like the past week.

Ben Fein, of Saugerties, the former Little Giant of local bowling circles, sends a photo and glowing account of the sixth consecutive mixed league bowling title captured by his Fein's Liquor stand in Saugerties. The question now before the house is: Don't you think it's about time he broke them up?

The shad aren't running, the trout aren't biting too well but most fishermen are born gamblers and optimists. Hoping for the best, they just gotta go fishing on their days off from work regardless of weather—good or bad. Yet weather, inflexibly, fixes the odds. Oklahoma anglers, sharp lads in a state where nearly everyone fishes, keep an eye on the weather man's odds. They watch local weather and find, 10 to 1, catches are best when the barometer is rising or jittering, especially with a west or south wind. Further, the zealots aver, one will get you 100 it's a dry hole when the barometer stays immovable for a long period or continues to drop steadily. (The foregoing has been checked and verified as correct by the department's fishing consultants, Irwin Thomas and Roland Post.)

The scene was the dining room of the beautiful Wendover Farms hard by Wappingers Falls.

"Glad you're here, son, before you get too young," we addressed the Negro waiter. He took the old pitch in full stride. "Maybe," he replied, "but I don't know where. I don't recognize you."

"Aren't you Julie Jamison, the Fighting Parson from Wappingers Falls?" we queried. "I am."

and additional prizes for shooting the low score at Pebble Beach, Calif., and Cleveland and coming in second at Prairie View, Ill.

Miss Suggs, of Carrollton, Ga., was best at Prairie View, just as she was at the Knollwood Country Club here over the week-end.

Going into the final 36 holes seven strokes behind, Miss Suggs fired a three-under-par 67 and sent her into a tie for fourth place with the Babe's advantage.

But in Sunday's showdown the babe refused to give ground and both she and her stoutest competitor came home with sub-par 78's.

Won It With Dons

East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—Pete Nowell, Michigan State's newly-appointed basketball coach, coached the University of San Francisco's 1948-49 cage team that captured the National Invitation Tournament title in New York city's Madison Square Garden.

White Plains, May 22 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias marked up a score today in her running golf rivalry with little Louise Suggs of Georgia.

The superb Chicago athlete won the rich Weathermans Cross-country tournament, a professional plum, which completed its four-week trek here yesterday.

Outstriking the ranking pros and amateurs of her sex, Mrs. Zaharias finished the 144-hole grind with a total score of 629. That's an average of a little more than 78 strokes a round.

She had a three-stroke advantage over Miss Suggs, who bested her by 14 strokes last year for the Women's National Open crown.

Mrs. Zaharias collected $7,500. This represented $5,000 first prize

Kallochmen Fail To Win Track Event

Sweeping every track event, the undefeated Kingston High School track squad rolled over Poughkeepsie High, 62 to 24, Saturday on the Memorial Field cinders in Poughkeepsie.

The majority of the races were close but Sam Kalloch's Blues failed to win a single one. Brown gave the Kallochmen a double win in the high jump and broad jump. Kingston's 440-yard relay team, Norm Mitchell, Frank Kiwus, Joe Ruzzo and Frank Modica, was clocked in 46.4 seconds.

Joe Ruzzo copped the 160-yard hurdles in 23.8 seconds and Kiwus was clocked in 10.4 in the century. Jimmie Harris won the mile in 4:53.3.

Craft reeled off the 440 yards in 56.5 seconds for a Kingston victory and Norm Mitchell romped home in '38 seconds in the 200.

Other Maroon firsts were Henville in the shotput with 71 feet, 1 inch and Nick Madison in the 880 in 2 minutes, 13.4 seconds. Kingston's next start is in the DUSO meet Saturday at Monticello.

The summaries:

Major League Roundup

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
All's well with the New York Yankees now that Joe DiMaggio is back on the team. Apparently all both DiMag and the Yankees needed was a change of scenery.

A sweep of the doubleheader in Cleveland yesterday, 14-5 and 12-4, established the World Champions more securely than ever in first place. With a record of 20-8, they're better off than they were a year ago today when they had a 19-10 mark.

Washington's 6-2 triumph over Detroit and Chicago's 4-3 victory over Boston after the Red Sox had won the opener, 7-0, gave the Yanks a two and a half game bulge over the second place Tigers and a three-game edge over the Red Sox.

When the Bronxites left the usually friendly confines of the Yankee Stadium a week ago Sunday they were in second place and DiMaggio was in the midst of one of the worst batting slumps of his career. He was batting .225.

One on the road, DiMaggio began hitting like a hot slugger and the Yankees wanted little time climbing to the top. They've won six straight with one more to play in Cleveland and two in Detroit. The leading figure in the Yankee surge has been DiMaggio. In the six games Joe collected nine hits in 23 times at bat for a batting mark of .391.

Dodgers Lead
The Brooklyn Dodgers lead in the National League with a 19-10 record. They won their 19th game when Philadelphia's Phillies divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals while the Cincinnati Reds were nosing out the Brooks, 10-9. The Cardinals needed a triple play to win the first game, 8-5, but the Phils came back to win the nightcap, 4-2, on Andy Seminick's two-run homer in the last of the ninth.
Boston's Braves moved into a third place tie with the Cards, winning two from the Cubs 3-2 and 4-3. Pittsburgh moved past the Cubs into fifth place, sweeping both ends of a double header from the Giants in New York, 4-2 and 8-6.

Philadelphia and St. Louis split an American League twin bill, the A's winning the second game, 8-3 after the Browns had won the opener, 11-6.

DiMaggio enjoyed his biggest day of the year yesterday as he batted in eight runs on the twin bill. A crowd of 79,370, third largest ever to see a major league game, saw Ed Lopat and Albie Reynolds each win his fourth game for the Yankees. Bob Feller and Early Wynn were the losers.

Marrero Clinics
Conrado Marrero, a pint-sized 5-7 Cuban right-hander, who toiled for Havana in the Class B Florida-International last year, stopped the Tigers with three hits for the Senators. It was Washington's 10th victory in the last 14 games. The triumph moved the Nats into third place.

Lefty Bill Pierce snapped a seven-game losing streak for the White Sox with a seven-hitter against Boston after Ellis Kinder had shut out Chicago on four hits in the opener. Bill Wright, Kinder's opponent, allowed only seven hits, but one was a three-run homer by Walter Drope.

Home runs by Virgil Stallcup, Johnny Wyrostek, Grady Hatton and Danny Litwhiler enabled Herman Velometer to go the distance in the Reds' 10-9 victory over Brooklyn.

Catcher Joe Garagiola was the hero of the Cards' 6-5 triumph over the Phils in the first game. He hit a single and two doubles and drove in a run. In the first inning after the Phils' Ed Walkeus took a third strike, Garagiola whipped the ball to third to nip Richie Ashburn. A quick relay to first caught Gran Hamner off the bag for a triple play.

Curt Simmons was credited with his fifth victory in the nightcap.

Johnny Sain registered his sixth triumph for the Braves in the 3-2 victory over the Cubs. He pitched six scoreless innings to value his string to 24 shutout frames before Chicago scored in the seventh.

Ralph Kiner slammed his eighth home run for Pittsburgh in the first game triumph over the Giants and followed with a 475-foot triple in the second game win.

Umpire Bill Stewart goes sprawling head first over outstretched foot of Giant Third Baseman Hank Thompson in fourth inning of game of twin bill with Cincinnati Reds at Polo Grounds. Ron Northey, Cincinnati rightfielder, goes safely into third advancing from first on teammate Grady Hatton's single to right. Cincinnati Coach Tony Cuccinella waves Northey to halt. Giants won 8-0.

Browns Gain Fans

Cleveland (AP) — "Meet the Browns," the promotional film of the Cleveland Browns football team, is being booked around the world. Recently it was shown to the employees of a rubber company at Christchurch, New Zealand. The game was new to the viewers, although they play a game somewhat similar but without blocking. That contact work intrigued the group from down under and to American style football squads are being organized. Big problem is getting someone to teach them the game.

Lumber Boom

Portland, Ore. (AP) — The size of this spring's home building boom throughout the United States is indicated by lumber orders pouring into 103 mills checked by the Western Pine Association. Orders up to April 15 showed an increase of 24 per cent over the similar period a year ago. Shipments for the same period were up 28 per cent and production increased 16 per cent. Lumber orders received at the 103 mills up to April 15 totaled 1,023,362,000 board feet to April 15, 1949.

Y.M.C.A. Drive Closes Tonight

The official closing of the Y.M.C.A. Drive will be at 10 tonight when Chalmers Jim Rowe totals collections from his workers up to that time. This morning the total received was $14,450. All workers both on the Initial Gift and General Committees are urged to get in their returns by this evening. A special committee will be organized to gather up gifts that are still out-standing after this evening's report.

There are a great many one-dollar contributions still outstanding and the committee urges those donors to phone the "Y" so that their dollar can be accounted for. A barrage of dollar donations along with the other gifts would put this drive across.

The boys' baseball program on Monday afternoon and Saturday morning are expected to attract a good attendance this week at the Athletic Field. Saturday is always a big day for baseball for the Preps and Cadets playing softball and baseball. This is for boys 11 to 14. All baseball is played by a swim in the pool.

The Red Cross Life Saving Class will finish this week with a test being given to about 50 boys and girls.

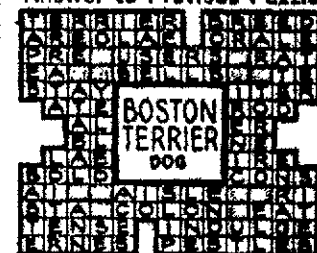

Applications have started to come in for camp. It is suggested that parents contact the "Y" early to get their children enrolled.

One of the first nations to broadcast a crude form of television programs regularly was WGY, Schenectady, in 1928.

British Bettors Get Break
London (AP) — The 10,000,000 Britons who play the football pools will save a little money next year. The government has lifted a ruling which required advance payment for pool entry blanks which are called coupons. The usual charge was two shillings (28 cents) for the coupons for a 42-week soccer season. The money—about 1,000,000 pounds ($2,800,000)—went to the operators of the pools. With the lifting of the order, a spokesman for the pools said the coupons will be given free. The government said the rule was to control the use of paper.

Wife Admits Hoax

held captive as revenge on her husband.
 Raper is assigned to the police gambling detail.
 Brown reported Raper told officers he received threatening telephone calls last week and a note in his mail box which said in part: "Stay out of my business or I will have to take your punishment."

Breaks Under Questioning
 However, after long questioning, Brown said Mrs. Raper broke down and admitted the whole affair was a "figment of my imagination."

The husband sounded the kidnapping alarm at 2 a. m. yesterday when he came home from duty. His wife was gone and there was evidence of a struggle.

He said her bedroom was in disorder. Her tattered night gown lay on the floor. A crudely scrawled note was pinned to a linen closet door saying:

"How do you like this Mr. Raper. Is afraid?"
 Raper said outside the house he found a 12-foot ladder leaning against a second story window where the screen was cut.

With that to go on, Police Chief

Grateful Pray

L. J. Hilbert ordered an all-out manhunt.
 In the afternoon Raper received a telephone call at home. He said he heard his wife scream and then the caller hung up before he could have the call traced.

Had Received Calls
 He said he got two calls early Sunday night. In one a man's voice said Mrs. Raper would be released in front of her home. The other was a woman, saying his wife would be freed in a residential area several miles across town.

Detective Chief Brown said Mrs. Raper finally called from a filling station in that residential area.

At first Mrs. Raper told Brown she was abducted by two men—45 and 20 years old—who forced their way into her bedroom and attempted to carry her away in the nude.

She told a story of being held captive all day guarded by a woman.

Later Brown said Mrs. Raper admitted she left home of her own accord and was not kidnapped.

Brown added Mrs. Raper said she called her husband several times during her absence to frighten him and admitted she wrote the note found in the bedroom.

A man and woman also were questioned briefly in the case.

Lieut. Wayne Harbort of the homicide squad and Robert W. Miller, 48, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Case, 48, signed statements saying Mrs. Raper spent the night with Mrs. Case at the Miller home.

Harbort said Miller stated Mrs. Raper came there shortly after midnight Saturday and remained with Mrs. Case until 7 p. m. yesterday when she left in a taxi.

Miller added he did not know why she came. Lt. Harbort said both Miller and Mrs. Case were released after giving their statements.

Husband Is Puzzled
 He added that Mrs. Raper was extremely nervous and upset. Police sent her home with her husband and plan to question her further today.

The husband was puzzled by it all, declaring to reporters: "There is something unusual about this case that has not been told. I have received a number of threatening phone calls from men when Mrs. Raper was sitting in the next room."

Raper added that since moving to his home two months ago screens on both the first and second floor bedrooms had been cut.

The husband told Detective Brown his wife fired a shotgun several weeks ago at what she thought was a prowler trying to enter her window.

Cries Before Birth
 Artesia, Calif., May 22 (AP)—Little Lynn George has a distinction few babies can claim. She cried before she was born, says the doctor who delivered her. Born yesterday, the child cried six minutes before actual delivery, Dr. Clifton N. Brakensiek reported.

He said the medical rarity occurred because the baby was face up, instead of face down, and an air pocket formed to keep the baby from drowning in the fluid. Both the attending nurse, Faith M. Fisher, and the mother, Mrs. Earl George, 27, under spinal anesthetic, also heard the cries.

With the interior damaged by the munitions barges blast, worshippers gather outside St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in South Amboy for outdoor Mass. Father John McMullen (center) says Mass, flanked by Monsignor Francis J. Sullivan (left) and Father James Murphy. Explosion's death toll was put at 27, with the injured numbering over 350. (NEA Telephone)

Smoke billows skyward as fire still blazes on barges and dock in South Amboy, N. J., following an explosion of four explosive-laden barges. A state of emergency was declared in South Amboy, a city of 10,000 persons, some 80 miles south of Manhattan.

Explosions Are

harmful fumes over the city. However, police said later that there was no panic and no danger of a general evacuation.

Explosion mines kept firemen at a respectful distance, but the fire was brought under control within a short time. It was finally decided to let it burn itself out over night.

Firemen played their hoses behind a nearby bank building for protection.

The 27 men lost in Friday's blast were mainly employees of the Jersey City stevedoring firm which contracted to load the munitions.

Only four bodies have been recovered, one of them mangled beyond recognition, and officers said it was doubtful if any more would be found whole.

Insurance men looked over the smashed waterfront structures and broken windows throughout the city and estimated damage at $7,500,000.

Officials of Hartford, Conn., insurance firms said they would pay about $4,000,000 to policy holders in South Amboy, but added that this was a "tentative guess" which may be boosted higher by payments to injured persons or to survivors of the dead.

An ironic aspect of the disaster was that the 600-ton munitions shipment was the last to be permitted here before enforcement of new coast guard safety regulations.

The coast guard office for the Port of New York ordered on May 19 that munitions shipments from South Amboy be limited to 500 pounds, because of the nearness of the docks to a congested area.

Vice Admiral Merlin O'Neill said the coast guard decided to permit one last shipment of more than 500 pounds, because it was informed that arrangements for the barge had been made before the May 9 order, and because it was considered safer to ship it than to leave it in crowded box cars.

50 Persons Killed
 damaged and up to 30 per cent completely ruined. Cuzco radio said the southeastern part of the town was hardest hit.

The broadcast said many persons were camping in the streets while others had fled to the country apparently in fear of renewed quakes.

Cuzco was the capital of the Inca Indians who dominated Peru for 500 years before the coming of the Spaniards in the 16th century. It lies 11,350 feet above sea level. It is noted for its colonial churches and ancient buildings.

The city has been considered by many as the archeological center of South America. Most of its residents are Indians. Descendants of the Spaniards live in the suburban areas.

Geisha School Open
 Kyoto, Japan, (AP)—A classical Japanese dance school has admitted men for the first time in its five centuries. Several of Japan's top Kabuki dancers are studying at the Inoue Kyo Mai school in Kyoto's famed Gion geisha quarters. Male Kabuki dancers traditionally portray both male and female parts.

House Will Give Its Time To Military, Draft, Aid Bills

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Military, draft and foreign aid legislation will keep the House of Representatives busy this week while the Senate wrangles over civil rights and reorganization.

Crowded onto the calendar of the House, which hopes to get a long Memorial Day holiday next week, are bills to extend the draft law, to speed up the navy's anti-submarine warfare program, to continue the Marshall Plan and to construct a far flung system of military public works.

If it gets time this week, the House also wants to dispose of a $925,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill, an election contest from Michigan and several less controversial measures.

Some House leaders are talking of a recess of a week or more starting next week, but no decision has been made. The thought is that the House should give the Senate time to catch up with major bills already passed by the House but not acted on by the Senate.

Three big House measures have been sent to the Senate: a full employment practices (F.E.P.C.) bill, an omnibus $29,000,000,000 appropriation measure and a Social Security bill.

Southern opposition to the F.E.P.C. has stalled the Senate for more than a week and it is still the pending business there.

It may again be set aside for a vote on some presidential reorganization plans, five of which already have been vetoed by the Senate. Plans not disapproved by either branch of Congress go into effect on Wednesday.

The foreign aid bill awaiting the Senate is a compromise between different versions passed previously by both branches. Not yet acted on by the Senate, it sets up a $3,121,450,000 program of American economic aid to Europe and other non-Communist areas, including South Korea.

It is scheduled for a House vote Tuesday, with passage apparently certain.

Little opposition is expected to the draft bill, which would continue for two years beyond next June 21 the selective service law. The House armed services committee took much of the sting out of the measure by writing into it a ban against actual inductions without express directions from Congress. The bill simply would keep intact the present draft machinery, youths would register without being subject to induction.

The anti-submarine and military public works bills also are products of the armed services committee.

One would authorize the navy to go ahead with construction of $435,000,000 worth of ships, mostly mail vessels. Included are submarines to be propelled by atomic energy.

The other would allow the Defense Department to undertake a half billion dollar program of military construction in the United States and at bases outside this country.

charges of communism and homosexuality in the State Department touched off a separate Senate investigation being conducted by a foreign relations subcommittee.

Perverts' Records told a reporter. "We impounded all the police department records on the matter, and all of those will be handed over to the committee which continues the investigation."

Vice President Barkley is expected to announce soon which Senate committee will get the investigation resolution introduced by Hill on behalf of all the members of the appropriations unit.

Hill has recommended that the inquiry be conducted by the Senate Expenditures Committee, which has a special investigations subcommittee headed by Senator Hoyer (D-N.C.).

Hoyer said that if his group got the assignment, there probably would be no public hearings, but a quiet investigation behind closed doors.

The ranking Republican on the Hoyer subcommittee is Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, whose ultimately two of them paid fines.

Drago Tells Legion God Is Necessary In Cold War Plans

"We're jubilant in the power of our armed forces, but we need something else—God—in this cold war against communism," Louis Drago, department commander of the American Legion, told more than 200 Legionnaires and guests at a dinner in his honor Saturday night at the Cannoneer Country Club in Marlborough. The dinner was sponsored by the Ulster County American Legion.

Commander Drago also said regarding rehabilitation for veterans, "popular interest wanes, and the hearts of the nation grow cold. Rehabilitation is the corner stone of the American Legion. We must never lag in the discharge of our duties to our comrades."

His admonition was "God and soldier we adore in time of danger not before; the danger past and all things righted; God is forgotten and the soldier slighted."

Raps Hoover Communism
Drago rapped the Hoover Commission, pointing out that the Legion is opposed to that part which would disband the Veterans Administration, thus inflicting great harm to our veterans in hospitals. "We don't want economy at the expense of that man who was out front when his country needed him," he declared.

"We paid on the barrel for our guns and ships," Drago added, "and now it is time to forget our human wrecks."

Turning to Congressman Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, who sat at the speakers' table, the state commander remarked, "I have his assurance that he will oppose that part of the Hoover plan which we consider detrimental to veterans."

In his speech, Congressman LeFevre called Drago "the type of man the Legion needs to watch affairs in Washington."

"The time has come when you men of World War 2 should take an active part in Washington matters," Drago declared. "I have a wonderful stand through the years on adequate defense, and concentrated action is needed in these days when we don't know the minute we might be dragged into another war."

He congratulated the organization for its stand against communism, and in reference to the investigation started by Senator McCarthy, an ex-serviceman, LeFevre said it should be continued. "We don't want Reds or fellow travelers in our government," he said.

Surveys Legion Program
Surveying the Legion's program for the past year, Commander Drago pointed out the efforts it put forth in fighting for veterans' preference. "Even though there was a split in the ranks, and we lost many benefits, the fight was a strong one," he said.

He recalled the organization's battle for "teeth in the Civil Service Law," that would eliminate anyone from employment who was in sympathy with overthrowing the government by force. Referring to Armed Forces Day, occurring on the same day as the dinner, the commander recalled that the fathers of America, when they landed on these shores, knelt and asked God for assistance. "We need God's help in this cold war today," he said. "We're jubilant in the power of our armed forces, but let's remember we need God."

3,500 Visit Ship Here Celebrating Armed Forces Day

The USS Newman K. Perry (DDR-883) played host to over 3,500 people over the week-end in connection with Armed Forces Day ceremonies. An accurate count was kept by the ship's personnel which showed that 1016 people boarded the vessel on Saturday afternoon and 2,541 people visited the ship Sunday. The captain and the crew were extremely pleased because when the ship was participating for the July 4th celebration last year in Savannah only 900 persons visited the ship. The officers and crew of the ship were highly honored by this keen interest exemplified by the people of Kingston and the neighboring communities.

Lt. Comdr. Herman E. Gottfried who was designated Armed Forces Project Representative for the City of Kingston by Gen. Walter B. Smith, former Ambassador to Russia, had complete cooperation from the citizens of Kingston in making this celebration an outstanding one. Members of the crew were permitted to attend the baseball games without any admission charge. The Bowlatorium, as well as the Elks Club, were thrown open to the members of the crew.

Friday evening several of the officers and enlisted men were entertained at a party at Judies. The Lions Club of Kingston played host to the members of the crew and, as usual, Judy prepared an excellent dinner. Major Theodore R. Lee, president of the Lions Club, was the Air Force Representative; Lt. Ben M. Cohen representing the Army and the Navy was represented by Lt. Comdr. Elmer Barnett and Lt. Comdr. Herman E. Gottfried. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk extended an official welcome to the personnel of the ship on behalf of the City of Kingston while the county was represented by County Treasurer John T. Groves. As further proof of the success of unification, the representatives of the three branches of the services joined in the welcoming ceremonies.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melrowitz entertained at a late supper party at which were present Capt. Carl Tiedeman, captain of the ship, as well as other members of the crew together with Mr. and Mrs. John T. Groves, Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Elmer Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bohan, Miss Paula Wiese, Ben Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Gottfried.

Saturday several of the members of the crew took tours through the countryside as well as enjoying the hospitality of both the Wiltwyck and Twaalfskill Golf Clubs. That evening the captain and several members of the crew were entertained at a cocktail party by the 40 & 8 at Carzoner's in Marlborough and were also guests at the Ulster County American Legion dinner where a most enjoyable evening was had.

On Sunday, which was the busiest day of all, several of the members of the crew were escorted on tours by Miss Wiese and Mrs. Gottfried through Woodstock and the watershed area which proved highly interesting.

Sunday evening the captain and his crew entertained. Refreshments were served and movies were shown aboard ship.

The ship shoved off this morning at 7 and will rendezvous off Atlantic City with several units of the Atlantic Fleet.

This celebration was one of the most successful in the history of the City of Kingston.

Boost Car Insurance Rates in State Today
New York, May 22 (AP)—The great majority of New York state motorists got bad news today—an average four per cent boost in passenger car liability insurance rates.

State Insurance Superintendent Robert F. Dineen said the new premiums are the direct result of more—and more serious—traffic accidents.

The revised rates went into effect today for new policies and will be applied to current policies as they are renewed.

While most areas of the state had increases ranging from one to 23 per cent, many central and western communities enjoyed decreases.

The captain and the crew were extremely pleased because when the ship was participating for the July 4th celebration last year in Savannah only 900 persons visited the ship. The officers and crew of the ship were highly honored by this keen interest exemplified by the people of Kingston and the neighboring communities.

Lt. Comdr. Herman E. Gottfried who was designated Armed Forces Project Representative for the City of Kingston by Gen. Walter B. Smith, former Ambassador to Russia, had complete cooperation from the citizens of Kingston in making this celebration an outstanding one. Members of the crew were permitted to attend the baseball games without any admission charge. The Bowlatorium, as well as the Elks Club, were thrown open to the members of the crew.

Friday evening several of the officers and enlisted men were entertained at a party at Judies. The Lions Club of Kingston played host to the members of the crew and, as usual, Judy prepared an excellent dinner. Major Theodore R. Lee, president of the Lions Club, was the Air Force Representative; Lt. Ben M. Cohen representing the Army and the Navy was represented by Lt. Comdr. Elmer Barnett and Lt. Comdr. Herman E. Gottfried. Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk extended an official welcome to the personnel of the ship on behalf of the City of Kingston while the county was represented by County Treasurer John T. Groves. As further proof of the success of unification, the representatives of the three branches of the services joined in the welcoming ceremonies.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Melrowitz entertained at a late supper party at which were present Capt. Carl Tiedeman, captain of the ship, as well as other members of the crew together with Mr. and Mrs. John T. Groves, Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Elmer Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bohan, Miss Paula Wiese, Ben Cohen and Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Gottfried.

Saturday several of the members of the crew took tours through the countryside as well as enjoying the hospitality of both the Wiltwyck and Twaalfskill Golf Clubs. That evening the captain and several members of the crew were entertained at a cocktail party by the 40 & 8 at Carzoner's in Marlborough and were also guests at the Ulster County American Legion dinner where a most enjoyable evening was had.

On Sunday, which was the busiest day of all, several of the members of the crew were escorted on tours by Miss Wiese and Mrs. Gottfried through Woodstock and the watershed area which proved highly interesting.
